Today's Game

Woolford vs Sanders Will Be An Intriguing Sideshow

By Tim Bourret

The Game Within the Game

While fans will be treated to the talents of two of the top 10 teams in the nation when Clemson meets Florida State, the individual battle between Clemson's Donnell Woolford and Florida State's Deion Sanders might be even more interesting than the game itself. Woolford and Sanders are rated the top two cornerbacks in the nation by just about every preseason magazine and pro scouting service.

They won't face each other since both play for their respective secondaries, but they will be watching one another like a hawk. So will the many NFL scouts who will be in the press box or watching on national television. Deion Sanders has the credentials to be named the best all-around athlete in the nation. He is a three-sport All-American with still a senior year to go. On the gridiron, he was chosen first-team All-American in 1987 after averaging nearly 12 yards per punt return, breaking up nine passes, intercepting four passes and racking up 46 tackles.

In January Sanders was named to the preseason All-America baseball team. Saying he was bored with college baseball (he had helped FSU to the College World Series in 1987), Sanders decided to give track a try and put baseball on hold. All he did was win the MVP of the Metro Track Meet by winning the 100 meters and the 200 meters. He also qualified for the NCAAs.

At the end of the school year he decided he needed a summer job. Why not play baseball for the Yankees? George Steinbrenner signed him to a $60,000 contract and by August he had advanced all the way to Triple A. Nice summer job Deion!

While Donnell Woolford did not have as interesting a summer (he was a mailman in the Clemson University mailroom), his overall football credentials are just as impressive. In fact, Woolford had more tackles, more interceptions, more passes broken up and a higher punt return figure in 1987.

In 1987 Woolford was named first-team All-American as he had 52 tackles, five interceptions and 15 passes broken up. The PBU total tied a Clemson single season record and he needs just four to become the career leader in that category. Heading into the Florida State game, Woolford is tied with current New York Giant Terry Kinard with 30 pass deflections. Delton Hall, now with the Pittsburgh Steelers, is the all-time leader with 33.

Woolford also ranked third in the nation in punt returns last season with an average of 15.0 yards per punt return, the highest national finish ever for a Clemson punt returner. He also was the first Tiger to win the punt return title in 10 seasons.

Both Woolford and Sanders might not have great stats this year because opposing coaches just won't throw in their area. In 1987 Woolford allowed only seven passes to be caught by players he was assigned to in man-to-man coverage. So far this year he has given up just two receptions and on one of those he forced a fumble that gave the ball back to the Tigers.

Both players have only nine tackles so far this season, and the main reason is that no one throws to their areas. Sanders ran an interception back 39 yards for a score to put the Southern Miss game in Florida State's favor last week, then Southern Miss quarterbacks learned to avoid him.

However, sooner or later each team will have to spread out their offense and both Sanders and Woolford will be challenged. So keep your eye on Clemson's #20 and Florida State's #2. Their presence alone will be worth the price of admission.

Clemson-Florida State Ties

Even though Clemson and Florida State have not met in 12 years there are a lot of ties between the two clubs. In fact no less than eight sets of players who will be facing each other today were high school teammates a few years ago.

Woolford needs four passes broken up to beat Hall's record.

Additionally, Florida State's athletic director, Hootie Ingram, was Clemson's head football coach between 1970 and 1972. He succeeded Clemson legend Frank Howard. Florida State defensive coordinator Mickey Andrews coached at Clemson from 1976 to 1980. Clemson Assistant Athletic Director and Head Trainer Fred Hoover is a Florida State grad, as is Clemson Head Basketball coach Cliff Ellis.

Clemson tight end James Coley played his high school football at Lee High in Jacksonville with Florida State fullback Edgar Bennett and safety LeRoy Butler. Thus, if Coley catches a pass he could be tackled by Butler, his old teammate.

Florida State tight end David Roberts played his high school football at Griffin High School in Georgia with Tigers Wayne Harps and Stacy Long. In fact, Harps was Roberts's quarterback, as Harps switched to defensive end when he came to Clemson.

The farthest reaching tie concerns the state of Connecticut. Clemson center Jeff Bak played his high school football with Tom O'Malley, who is now Florida State's starting tight end.

Chip Ferguson, Florida State's starting quarterback, was the signal caller for Spartanburg High School in 1984, the same year Clemson's Dorian Marable was the state lineman of the year. Marable was the defensive MVP of the Citrus Bowl.

Clemson starters Vince Taylor and Arlington Nunn both played at Clearwater High School in Clearwater, FL with FSU backup center Chris Nicolas.

A few roster players who won't play in this game also have ties. Scott Beville, Clemson's snapper, played his high school ball in Ocala, FL with Kevin Grant. However, Grant is injured and will not play against Clemson.

Vince Robinson, a reserve fullback with the Tigers who is yet to appear in a game, was Ronald Lewis's quarterback at Raines High School in Jacksonville, FL a few years back. Lewis is Florida State's top receiver. Raines is also the school that sent Terrance Roulhac to Clemson. Finally, Clemson redshirt receiver Stacy Lewis is a native of Baxley, GA and played his high school ball with Florida State tailback Dexter Carter and tight end Carl Simpson.

Coley could be tackled by a high school teammate.

Smith Off to Great Start

Clemson senior Richard Smith is probably the least publicized of the Clemson starters in the secondary, but the native of Sparta, GA is off to a fine start. He has 18 tackles to rank second on the team and also has two passes broken up to tie for the team lead. More importantly, he has not been beaten by an enemy wide receiver. Last Saturday he had 14 tackles, the highest tackle total by a Clemson defensive back since A. J. Johnson had 14 against Virginia Tech in 1985.

Largest Crowd Expected

Clemson is expecting to break another attendance record for the Florida State game. It is anticipated that over 83,000 people will jam Memorial Stadium on Saturday, which would break the Clemson record of 82,492 set against South Carolina on November 22, 1986. Clemson and the Gamecocks tied 21-21 in that game.

The Tigers have already had two 80,000-plus games this year and are virtually assured of averaging over 80,000 for the season. That would be an ACC first, as the current record for attendance over the course of a season is 78,700 which was set in 1986. This will be Clemson's 11th crowd of over 80,000 and the Tigers are 7-2-1 in the previous 10 games.

Top 10 Teams Do Battle

This will mark the first time since Memorial Stadium was built in 1942 and the first time since the AP poll began in 1936 that two top 10 teams have faced each other in Death Valley. Florida State's number-10 ranking is the highest ranking for a Clemson opponent since South Carolina came to Death Valley with a number-nine ranking in 1984.

The highest ranking for a Clemson opponent in Death Valley is the number-two rating that Maryland had on November 12, 1955. Maryland won that game 25-12.

This will be the fourth time since Danny Ford has been the coach at Clemson that both Clemson and the opposition have been ranked in the top 20 for a game in Death Valley. Clemson has won each of the three previous occasions, including the Georgia contest last year. In that CBS nationally televised game, Clemson entered with a number-eight ranking, while Georgia was 18th. Clemson won the game 21-20 on a late field goal by David Treadwell.

The other times two top 20 teams have gone at it in Death Valley took place in 1982 when a 13th-ranked Clemson team downed an 18th-ranked North Carolina team by a 16-13 count, and in 1983 when 17th-ranked Clemson upset 11th-ranked Maryland 52-27. That was the now famous balloon game.

Danny Ford has been successful against top 20 teams in his career at Clemson. In fact he is the only ACC coach with a winning record against top 20 teams (min. 5 years as a coach). Ford is 14-10-1 overall against AP top 20 teams, including 5-2-1 in Death Valley.

Donnell Woolford

Clemson's All-America Cornerback Comments on ...

His Role as a Team Leader

"I am a quiet leader. I prefer to lead by having good work habits on and off the field. If I make a strong tackle early in the game or make the big play it will show leadership to the team. Whenever I can make the big play I try to do it. It gets everyone keyed up.

"I probably pay special attention to the first-year freshmen. When I came here I looked up to Delton Hall and Kenny Danforth for support and they showed me the ropes. I am at the point where I can help the freshmen. When I've left here I want the younger guys to have the same respect for me that I have for Hall and Danforth."

First Impression of Clemson

"I first heard of Clemson when I was little. I used to watch the games on TV, even before 1981. Then, in 1981, Clemson became a dominant team. When I was a sophomore I got a letter from them and it made me happy. I probably came to Clemson because they sent me that first letter. Clemson was always at the top of my list because they showed interest in me so early."

His First Scrimmage at Clemson

"It was the first team against the third team in the first scrimmage of the year.

Ray (Williams) was a veteran and was on the first team and I was on the third. He ran a hitch pattern, threw a move and I missed him. He almost did it twice in fact, but I tripped him up the second time.

"After practice he came over to me and said 'I got you rookie didn't I'. I said 'I guess that's how the big boys play isn't it.' But Ray helped me out a lot during the time we were both here. He'd give me a ride home to Fayetteville and in general was there when I needed guidance."

The Fundamentals of Tackling

"Basically you have to keep your head up and look at your opponent. A lot of people duck their head and get into trouble. You have to keep your eyes open. You can't hit anyone if you can't see them. You have to keep the feet going too. The open field tackle is toughest because the offensive player knows where he is going. You just have to get him down anyway you can until help arrives."

Other Sports

"I like basketball the most. A lot of people were asking me about going out last year when the team was short of people because of injuries. I thought about it, but I enjoy going over to Fike and playing when I want to in the offseason.

"I am a big basketball fan. I will go to Littlejohn Coliseum, watch the game and then go to Fike and play. It's fun to watch some moves in the game, and then try to duplicate the move or some special dunk in a pickup game. Sometimes it's fun just to go over and dunk.

"Overall, I really enjoy sports. I love basketball and football the most, but I like to play tennis and golf also. I'll watch basketball and football on TV, especially pro football."

Favorite Pro Team

"I have always been a Dallas Cowboys fan. My dad was a Pittsburgh Steeler fan and we would have quite a rivalry in the household when those two teams played. When Dallas came on I would watch that game and no other.

"Now I watch all the games; I flip that channel button around. Since I have gotten older I really don't have a favorite team. There are a lot of teams I follow because there are Clemson guys I know playing on different teams. It's funny in that I will watch Pittsburgh and root for them because Delton (Hall) plays for them. I used to hate them."

His Family

"I am the oldest of five children. My brothers and sisters are into sports, but are young. My dad has always gone to my games, but my mother is just starting to get interested. When I was little she always stayed home and took care of the other kids. Now my parents switch off from week to week. My dad came for Virginia Tech, my mother for Furman."

Biggest Athletic Thrill

"Beating Georgia at Georgia in 1986. That was a special win because it was a landmark win for us. Georgia has always been good under Vince Dooley and beating them after our 6-6 season the year before really elevated our program.

"Individually, I'd have to say the punt return for a TD against Georgia Tech was big. I knew Clemson had gone a long time without a kickoff return for a touchdown. Ray (Williams) and (Terrance) Roulhac always talked about Clemson not having one over 20 years, but I didn't know it had been so long (17 years) for a punt return also."

Woolford has been making the big play for four years. Here he blocks a Maryland punt in 1985.

Fielding Punts

"I did it a little in high school. I was not really interested at first in doing it at Clemson. I thought it might be a little dangerous because you are in a vulnerable position waiting for the ball. But, I liked handling the ball and it is a way for me to get more involved."

Deion Sanders

"Deion Sanders is a good guy, we met at the Playboy All-America team outing. I saw him play a little against Miami and he seems to be a good all-around athlete. Anyone who can play college football well and make it to AAA with the Yankees must be a good athlete."

One-Platoon Football

"I wouldn't like that. I like being the guy doing the hitting instead of taking the hit from unexpected angles."

"I already experienced playing both ways (in high school) and I'd rather just play defense. You can last longer playing just defense because you don't have unexpected hits."

Best High School Game

"It came against Lumberton High, Tim Worley's (Georgia tailback) high school. It received a lot of pregame publicity because we were considered to be the best two running backs in North Carolina. I had 200 yards at the half, but became dehydrated and missed the second half. We still won and Worley got only 60 yards against us."

Pro Athlete He Admires

"Walter Payton has been successful in his career and is a role model for me. He has accomplished a lot in many areas, and set an example for us to follow. He has gotten to where he is by giving 100 percent. He has shown that hard work leads to success. He has been an inspiration to me."

Woody McCorvey

"Coach McCorvey recruited me to Clemson and he has been like a second father to me. He and Ray Williams helped me when I first got here; they were both people I could turn to when I needed help. It has been my experience that the coaches here continue to care about the players they recruited after they come to Clemson."

DELICIOUS

Last year, ARA served thousands of meals to people away from home. College students, hospital staffs, industrial personnel. Why, right here in Clemson, ARA serves over 15,000 breakfasts, lunches and dinners to students, parents and faculty daily.

But you may not know our full story. ARA chooses only the freshest and most wholesome ingredients. Bright, crisp vegetables. Ripe, firm fruits. The choicest meats and dairy products. Ingredients that are chopped, steamed, broiled, baked and blended into delicious menus. For banquets or birthdays. Cocktail parties or tailgate feasts. In your home or in one of our private dining rooms in the Clemson House. No matter what your special occasion, ARA can fill the bill of fare.

WE'VE GOT SCHOOL SPIRIT!

It's hard to find a bigger booster of South Carolina's schools than Chem-Nuclear. We know there's nothing more vital to our state than giving every child a sound education.

But we're more than cheerleaders. We make a major financial contribution to our schools. Through a special tax on low-level radioactive waste disposal—paid by no other company—we send 6 million dollars a year to public education. That's enough for the salaries of about 245 teachers. We pay 12 million dollars in other state taxes and fees that support State Government, and a special business tax that we pay in Barnwell County is a major part of the school budget there. The taxes paid by Chem-Nuclear's employees on our 11 million dollar payroll also help finance schools.

No one likes taxes. But we look at our contribution to education as an investment that will pay off in skilled workers, informed citizens, and a better South Carolina.

In fact, that investment is so important to us that we do more than send a check—we get involved. Disabled students have landscaping classes on the grounds of our Barnwell facility. We transport deaf students to camp. Equipment given by Chem-Nuclear upgrades science labs at several schools. We sponsor high school economics classes through Junior Achievement. And we make substantial donations to programs for the arts.

The teachers and students of our state are a great team. The school spirit shown by Chem-Nuclear and other South Carolina companies helps make them winners.

University President

This year may be remembered not only as the year Clemson University began its second century, but also as the time when the impact of the Max Lennon era became readily apparent.

When he came to Clemson more than three years ago, Dr. Lennon brought with him some definite ideas about what was needed in order for Clemson to reach its potential: more emphasis on research and the graduate program (the university's greatest potential for growth and immediate economic impact); increased private support for academics; more effort in frontier areas of research to aid South Carolina's traditional industries; a more global perspective in both academic programs and research; and a significant state investment in higher education.

Those were the ideas; now for the reality:

- more than a 60 percent increase in research funding in a single year
- the most successful private fund-raising year ever, with more than a 40 percent increase over last year's record-breaking total
- a landmark experiment in the field of biotechnology, plus research that is breaking new ground in advanced apparel manufacturing, composites, robotics and many other areas
- the addition of international academic programs and research partnerships involving Clemson with institutions in Japan, France, Germany, Italy, Egypt, China, Israel and Great Britain, among others

- a $5-million higher education initiative called the Cutting Edge

But the Lennon agenda is far from completed. The Clemson president sees more challenges, more opportunities, ahead. At a recent address to the faculty, he said, "We must continue to look for new ways to fulfill Clemson's land-grant mission: aggressively recruiting students into areas that are exclusive to Clemson—agriculture, forestry and textiles—and that have more job opportunities than graduates, increasing minority representation in the faculty and administration as well as the student body, and making Clemson more accessible.

"As a land grant college, we have an obligation in rural development and to help eliminate the pockets of poverty and illiteracy that remain in this state. Education is the answer, and we have an obligation to make education accessible to all people."

Lennon sees Clemson as still in the process of maturing into a major, comprehensive university with a regional and national reputation in its primary mission areas—science and technology. He has worked hard to bring together the necessary support system by involving not only faculty and staff but also legislators, business leaders and alumni in determining Clemson's future. And the future looks pretty bright. "Clemson is a very exciting place to be right now," he says.

Lennon came to Clemson from Ohio State University, where he had been executive dean for agriculture, home economics and natural resources. Lennon was also on the Ohio State Faculty Senate and was co-chairman of the Governor's commission on agriculture.

Previously, he had served as dean of the College of Agriculture, and as director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Missouri, and as associate dean and director of research in the College of Agricultural Sciences at Texas Tech University.

Lennon is a native of Columbus County, N.C., and earned his bachelor's degree (1962) and doctorate from N.C. State University. He began his teaching career at N.C. State.

The Clemson president has been active in a number of civic and professional groups, ranging from his local PTA and the South Carolina Research Authority to the National Dropout Prevention Fund and the International Development Institute.

Last fall, Lennon was named to the board of trustees of the Farm Foundation, a national organization devoted to improving research and education to benefit rural areas. He will serve a four-year term as the university representative on the board, which also includes farmers, legislators and executives of leading agricultural industries.

Lennon was appointed earlier this year to the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Policy Advisory Committee for Science and Education Research Grants Program by Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng, and was a keynote speaker at the AgBiotech 88 international conference in Washington.

Lennon is married to Ruth Carter Lennon and they have two children, Daniel Ray (26) and Robin (23).

Max Lennon is a major reason Clemson realized a 60 percent increase in research funding last year.

Take Time Out To See Clemson

When you come to Clemson for an exciting weekend of football, sometimes it's easy to take the Clemson area and all the things to do here for granted. But when you stop and think about it, there's plenty to see and do in Clemson the whole year round.

Rich history, a wonderful climate, beautiful Lake Hartwell and the scenic Blue Ridge Mountains provide the perfect backdrop for sightseeing, eating out, seeing a show, shopping, and an endless variety of outdoor activities.

You'll be comfortable during your stay. Accommodations in the area range from cozy nineteenth-century bed and breakfast inn to a variety of modern hotels. And area restaurants feature everything from upcountry cookin' to fine cosmopolitan cuisine.

So make plans to really see Clemson, during football season--or any other time of year. No matter what the season, we guarantee you'll want to come again.

Bobby Robinson

Athletic Director

On March 9, 1985, Clemson University named Bobby Robinson as the ninth athletic director in the school's 96-year history. And since that time, success and prosperity are the words that best describe Robinson's program.

Robinson has had significant successes as a result of his great commitment to being the best in three areas—competition, academics, and facilities. The past three years' results provide evidence of the program's placement among the best in competition, and also prove significant strides are being made in the other two areas.

The 1987 version of the football program will long be remembered for its 10-2 record and the 35-10 Florida Citrus Bowl victory over Penn State. The Tigers finished 10th in the final AP poll, the seventh Top 20 ranking in the past 11 years.

Both major revenue sports, football and men's basketball, were involved in postseason play. In fact, out of 18 sports offered at Clemson, 15 were involved in some sort of postseason play.

The Men's basketball program participated in the NIT, as Cliff Ellis guided the Tigers to their fourth consecutive postseason appearance—the first time in the history of ACC basketball that a team has entered postseason play in the first four years under a new coach. The Lady Tiger basketball team made the NCAA tournament field under first-year coach Jim Davis and had an ACC record 13-game improvement over the previous year.

The surprise story of 1987-88 was the Clemson Tiger soccer team. Seeded 23rd out of 24 teams in the NCAA tournament, the Tigers swept through the field to earn the right to play host to the Final Four. Over 8,300 Tiger fans watched as Clemson defeated San Diego State 2-1 for its second national championship in four years.

Clemson's baseball team won an ACC record tying 54 games and finished 15th in the final poll, while the Clemson golf team was 17th and won the ACC title for the second straight year.

Clemson's men's tennis team was 10th ranked and won its ninth ACC title in 10 years, while the outdoor track team was tied for 15th, its highest NCAA finish ever.

All four teams received bids to the NCAA and finished in the top 20, making Clemson and Texas the only two schools with this honor.

The success of these teams gave Clemson the honor of a number-eight ranking in men's sports and number-28 in women's sports in the Knoxville Journal's All-Sports poll. Ten Clemson teams were ranked in the final top 20.

In academics, Clemson student-athletes had another outstanding year. Ninety-seven young men and women had 3.0 or better grade point averages each semester, with seven earning a perfect 4.0 GPA. The football team had two players named to the academic All-ACC team, and four students were named to various Academic All-America teams. Over 30 former Tiger student-athletes received college degrees in the past 12 months.

The commitment to success in academics is further confirmed by the decision to build an academic learning center for student-athletes. Encompassing over 16,000 square feet, the center will feature classrooms, learning labs, and an auditorium, as well as office space for the athletic advising staff, which now has three full-time staff members.

In the area of facilities, Robinson has a record of success and accomplishments second to none. Capital improvements include the indoor tennis facility and the soccer stadium, with the learning center and completion of the baseball stadium scheduled for 1989. Major renovations recently completed include the golf practice area, cross country trail, stadium locker rooms, wrestling practice room, and football coaches meeting rooms. A complete maintenance and irrigation system has also been implemented for all practice fields.

Renovations under way include the new IPTAY/ticket complex at Gate 9 at the football stadium, a nine-lane all-weather track, Jervay Center offices and gymnasium, as well as the coliseum dressing rooms. Without a doubt, Clemson athletic facilities are among the finest in the country.

Administratively, Robinson has instituted policies and procedures that benefit all constituents. Among the changes are the drug testing program, the Student Athlete Assistance Program (SAAP), a staff Policies and Procedures Manual, computerization of the department, the pro agents seminar, as well as the athletic academic scholarship endowment.

From a university perspective, Robinson envisions the athletic department as being one of 49 campus departments, serving a viable role to the mission of Clemson University. "Athletic competition provides a common bond for students, faculty, staff, and friends," according to Robinson.

Under the direction of Robinson, the athletic department continues to support the university. Over $900,000 have been contributed to the athletic academic scholarship fund; and band travel equipment and uniforms are funded by athletic dollars. An educational enhancement fund has been coordinated through the efforts of the athletic department and the Athletic Council.

With Robinson's qualifications, it is easy to see why the Clemson athletic program enjoys continued success—he has done it all. He has been an administrator at all levels, he has worked in other areas of the university, he has been a head coach, and he has handled the budgetary aspects needed to run a $12 million program.

Robinson has confidence in his staff, his coaches, his athletes, and the facilities at Clemson University. "We have a solid base to work from, but if we are not moving forward, we are losing ground. We will work within university guidelines and expand our horizons. We want to be as good as we can as a vital part of the university and the state of South Carolina."

Robinson was graduated from Furman with a B.S. degree in business and political science in 1968. He was the president of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity chapter at Furman.

Robinson came to Clemson in 1970, not in athletics, but in the housing office. After three years, he moved across campus to serve as an administrative assistant in the athletic department.

After serving the athletic department in various capacities, he became business manager in 1975. Two years later he was named assistant athletic director, and in 1980, he became associate AD. He held that title for four years, and his area of responsibility moved to primarily football and basketball.

While serving his administrative duties, Robinson found time to coach the Clemson golf team between 1975 and 1983. During his time as the head coach, Clemson won its first ACC title in golf and three times the Tigers participated in the NCAA tournament. In 1983, his final season as the head coach, he guided Clemson to a number-five finish. Robinson is now a member of the NCAA golf committee and is a member of the CFA Board of Directors.

Head Coach Danny Ford

Danny Ford has spent many years following in the footsteps of legends. As a player and young coach, he worked under the tutelage of the legendary Bear Bryant. Later at Clemson, he stepped into the position once held by "The Legend" himself, Frank Howard.

Last season, Ford led his team to one of the winningest records in Clemson history. He also took his team to the Citrus Bowl where he challenged another legend, Joe Paterno. It was his sixth bowl trip in only nine years as a head coach and his fourth bowl victory in those six trips. All nine years as head coach, his teams have had winning regular season records. With a mark like that, Danny Ford also could soon win the right to be called a legend.

Ford's legacy of success did not begin when he became a head coach, it has followed through his entire affiliation with the game of football. Overall, he has been involved with 20 winning regular seasons in his 21 years of football, and his teams have won over 74 percent of the time.

His success as a head coach is not only evident in his win-loss record, but also in the relationships he has with his players, past and present. He is admired and respected by his players and they enjoy playing for him. This respect is well deserved when you take a look at the list of accomplishments over the past nine seasons:

1. Sixth winningest active coach in America.
2. Only coach in ACC history with over a 70 percent winning percentage, he is currently at .743.
3. Has coached Clemson in six bowl games.
4. Clemson has won four ACC titles during his tenure (81, 82, 86, 87).
5. Has coached five teams that have finished in the final AP Top 20.
6. Has coached 56 All-ACC players, 23 All-Americans and 38 of his former players have been NFL draftees.

This list would be impressive with anyone's name on it, but considering the fact that Ford just turned 40 on April 2, it is phenomenal. Ford's most significant accomplishment, winning the 1981 National Championship, was attained when he was only 33-years-old. Clemson's rising legend is the youngest coach in the history of the college game to win the Associated Press National Championship.

Ford has recently reached another milestone, he is now the winningest coach in the history of the Atlantic Coast Conference on a percentage basis. He is already seventh in total wins among ACC coaches. These wins have not been easy ones. Instead, they have come against fierce competition. Ford has already gained more wins over AP top 20 teams and top 10 teams than any other coach in Clemson history.

Ford has established a new era in football at Clemson University, creating one of the most solid programs in the nation. Now in his 10th full season with the Tigers, his record of 76-25-4 (.743) is the sixth best winning percentage in college football among active coaches. Additionally, Clemson also has the sixth best winning percentage in the nation over the last 10 years. Clemson is the only team in the nation to win a bowl game, a conference championship and finish in the top 20 of the AP poll each of the last two years.

After examining Ford's football past, it is difficult to imagine him as anything but successful. Another in a long line of former Bear Bryant players that have gone on to greatness in coaching, Ford played for the Bear between 1967 and 1969.

Ford is the ACC's winningest coach on a percentage basis.

He was Kenny Stabler's tight end in 1967 when he started as a sophomore. He played tight end again in 1968 and moved to offensive tackle in 1969. Ford started all three years, was all-conference in 1969 and played on three teams that went to bowl games. In 1969 he was also a member of the All-SEC academic team, and served as captain of the Alabama squad. Ford also played freshman basketball at Alabama.

After Pat Dye's coaxing, Ford remained at Alabama as a graduate assistant for the 1970 and 1971 season. After earning a B.S. degree in Industrial Arts, he received a master's degree in Special Education in 1971. In 1972 and 1973, Ford was a full-time assistant for the Bear. During these four years, the Crimson Tide went to four bowl games with Ford as an assistant.

Ford left Alabama for Virginia Tech where he was an assistant under Jimmy Sharpe for three seasons (1974-76). In 1977, Clemson came calling and Ford joined the coaching staff as an offensive line coach. Only 23 games later, at the age of 30, Ford was named the Tigers' head coach, making him the youngest active Division 1 coach in the country.

Danny Ford and Joe Paterno are both ranked among the top six winningest active coaches in Division I.

In The Long Run

Knowing you're the best you can be. Knowing the effort, sweat and determination pays off with personal satisfaction and good health. Though it's a never-ending challenge, the reward – feeling good and feeling good about yourself – makes it all worthwhile.

At Blue Cross and Blue Shield of South Carolina and the Companion Group of Companies, we're constantly striving to be the best we can be. Working hard to deliver top-quality health insurance and related services like life insurance, property and casualty insurance, health maintenance organization coverage, financial management and more.

Our strength is obvious in a number of ways – financial stability, corporate citizenship in the community, dependability, state of the art operations and a myriad of products and services. But our true strength can only be measured in the satisfaction you feel, knowing Blue Cross and Companion are the best we can be for you ... in the long run.

Emergency Services

The Clemson University Athletic Department provides the following for your safety and emergency medical needs:

1. Advanced cardiac life-support stations in four locations. (North stands, Upper North deck, South stands, Upper South deck). These units are staffed with skill-care nurses, physicians, cardiologists, internists, paramedics, and EMTs.
2. Mobile units of EMTs and paramedics are strategically located throughout the entire stadium.
3. Ambulances with life-support equipment are available in North stand and South stand areas and have prearranged routes for evacuation to local hospitals.

Learn to recognize these personnel and facilities.

WHAT TO DO IF EMERGENCIES ARISE

Please step back and give the organized stadium EMS personnel room to work. Well-intentioned attempts to help by untrained persons interfere with the efficiency of the EMS system. If you have basic or advanced training in specific life-support methods, make your qualifications known and offer your help. Untrained personnel can be frequently more harmful than helpful.

MEDICAL ADVICE FOR FANS

If you have a pre-existing medical or health problem, please check with your personal physician and obtain his advice before attending games. Many emergencies occurring at the stadium do so because of prior existing conditions. Use common sense in dressing, eating, drinking and physical exertion. Be certain that you have identification on you as to the diagnosis and what medications you are currently taking.

Be aware of warning signs of heart attacks: chest pain, chest tightness, shortness of breath, sweating, palpitations, fainting, nausea and vomiting.

Recognize that our most common serious medical problems at football games are heart attacks and allergic reactions to insect stings. Be aware that insect stings will always be very frequent at outdoor sporting events and should always be treated with immediate ice until advice can be obtained. If you have ever had a reaction to a bee or other insect sting, check with your personal physician as to whether you should carry a kit.

The stadium emergency phone number is (803) 656-2999.

Clemson Coaches

The 1987-88 Tiger athletes continued the winning ways of previous Clemson teams. From a soccer national championship in the fall to NCAA appearances by four teams last spring (men's tennis, baseball, track and golf), Clemson was successful throughout the year.

The Tigers claimed five ACC championships during the past academic year. The football team went on to a 35-10 victory over Penn State in the Citrus Bowl. Clemson's women's swimmers finished the season with a perfect 9-0 record and repeated as the fifth ranked team in the nation. Also winning the conference was the men's tennis team, which competed in the NCAA tournament. In addition to these ACC tournament champs, Clemson's baseball squad ended the regular season on top of the conference standings.

ACC Coach-of-the-Year honors went to Bill Cason (men's cross country), Bob Boettner (women's swimming), and Bill Wilhelm (baseball). Five of last year's conference MVP's and four Academic All-Americans came from Clemson. Tiger teams produced 22 All-America athletes, as Clemson finished the year with 10 different sports ranked among the nation's top 20.

= ACC

'88

As millions of loyal fans file through stadium turnstiles from Atlanta to College Park this Fall, many millions more will be following the television cameras of Jefferson-Pilot Teleproductions, the most intense sports rivalries in the East unfold — ACC Football.

We're proud to begin our fifth consecutive season of bringing you a full schedule of gridiron drama that has made Atlantic Coast Conference football a regional tradition.

We're part of the Jefferson-Pilot family of companies. And whether it's protecting families with life insurance or entertaining them on radio and television, our commitment to quality, in business and in life, remains the same.

So, as the passion and the pageantry of one of America's most exciting sports spectacles unfold across some of the country's most beautiful campuses, all of us at Jefferson-Pilot Teleproductions wish each ACC member the very best of luck.

And we invite everyone to enjoy the action with us.

The first thing to check when buying a new house is the yard.

If there's an SCE&G Good Cents sign in the yard, then you know the house is going to be both energy efficient and comfortable to live in. In fact, a Good Cents home even qualifies for a lower electric rate. Before you buy, look for the Good Cents sign outside, you'll be a lot happier with what you find inside.

"It was loud at LSU (where the Tar Heels played two weeks previously) but it wasn't like this."

Tim Goad, North Carolina
middle guard, 1986

"I came in here knowing it would be loud and that Clemson would hit me hard, but to me the noise was the biggest factor. I know I didn't concentrate as well because of it."

Clemson Looks For A Record Fifth Straight Postseason Bid

By Tim Bourret

With the return of the third best shooting starting frontcourt in ACC history and the addition of two top guards, Cliff Ellis should be in a good position to become the first coach in ACC history to take a basketball team to postseason play in each of his first five seasons. Nine lettermen and four starters return from a 14-15 NIT team that topped ninth-ranked Duke and 13-rated Georgia Tech in the last week of the regular season.

"Last season we just had too many turnovers, not enough steals and shot 29 percent from three-point land," said Ellis in evaluating his 1987-88 team. "Two years ago we were in the top 10 in the nation in three-point shooting and that is an area we must improve to be successful in 1988-89.

"It is amazing to think we had one of the best shooting frontlines in the history of the league last year because opponents would pack in their zones and let our wings shoot from the outside. In 1986-87 with Michael Tait, Anthony Jenkins and Michael Brown shooting from the perimeter, it opened things up for Horace Grant inside and we won 25 games.

"We had fine seasons from Elden Campbell, Jerry Pryor, Dale

Davis and Sean Tyson last year, the difference was the outside shooting and injuries in the backcourt. We had only two guards healthy at times last year.

"With the addition of three guards who shot near 50 percent as a group from three-point land last year in their respective leagues we hope this will be a significant area of improvement this season."

In the recruiting season Ellis picked up Marion Cash, a JUCO All-American from Pratt JC in Kansas, High School All-American David Young from nearby Greenville, SC, and Kirkland Howling the Co-Junior College Player-of-the-Year in California last season. In fact, all five of the newcomers are guards or wing players.

"Overall, we have the big guys inside to score and get the defensive rebounds, but we do need to improve on our offensive rebounding from last season (Clemson had a negative offensive rebound margin). We also need to shoot better from the perimeter. From a defensive standpoint we need to create turnovers (Clemson had 16 fewer steals than its opponents in 1987-88).

"Our strength will be in the frontline. We should be a power team with Elden Campbell, Dale Davis and Jerry Pryor. They have the potential to be the strongest frontline in the league.

"I'm not sure what type of team this will be, it will depend on how quick our backcourt is. That will determine if we will be more up-tempo than last year. If Cash, Young, (Tim) Kincaid, and Howling are overly quick then we can pressure the opponent backcourt more, we can run more, and use more pressing defenses. We will just have to evaluate that in preseason practice."

FRONTCOURT (3 returning starters, 6 returning lettermen)

Elden Campbell, Jerry Pryor and Dale Davis collectively shot 59.6 percent from the field last year, the third best field goal percentage for a starting frontcourt in the storied 35-year history of the ACC. All three starters return, giving Clemson a solid nucleus for 1988-89.

Campbell (6-10, Jr.) led the ACC in field goal percentage (.629), blocked shots per game (3.2) and points per minute (.650). In fact he led all sophomores in the NCAA in field goal percentage and blocked shots per game and paced the Clemson team in scoring with an 18.8 average. That scoring figure was third in the league and his 7.4 rebounds per game ranked seventh in the conference.

"Elden has made great strides since coming to Clemson," said Ellis. "In his first year we got 15 strong minutes a game from him and last year he improved to 25-28 minutes per game. This year we need 35 minutes a game from Elden Campbell. There weren't many better players in college basketball for 25 minutes last year and I think he will improve his stamina this year.

"He made the Select Team that traveled Europe in preparation for the Olympics this summer and playing against Danny Manning and David Robinson has got to help him towards this season. I could not be more proud of what he did over the summer. They invited 90 players to the Olympic camp and he made it to the final 28, that is quite an accomplishment when you look at the roster of players who tried out."

Clemson had just one senior on last year's team (Grayson Marshall) and that will be the case again this season. Jerry Pryor (6-7, Sr.) will take on the team leadership role and it is a role the fourth leading field goal shooter in Clemson history finds comfortable. Pryor started 25 of the 29 games last year and finished second to Campbell in scoring with a 12.0 average. The 6-7 native of Brooklet, GA shot 59.3 percent from the field and hauled in 4.6 rebounds per game. Pryor connected for double figures in scoring in 20 games and shot at least 50 percent from the field in each of his last nine games.

While Jerry Pryor is the incumbent at the small forward, Dale Davis (6-9, So.) is solid as the returning power forward. And we do mean power. The 6-10 sophomore, who can bench press more weight than Horace Grant could when he left Clemson, was an awesome force on the boards at the end of the year.

Campbell played on the Olympic select team and the NIT All-Stars this past summer.

Pryor is fourth in Clemson history in career field goal percentage.

"I have never had a harder working freshman in my coaching career than Dale Davis," said Ellis of the native of nearby Toccoa, GA. "He needs to work on some moves offensively and to become more of an all-around threat in terms of scoring, but he is a force on the boards."

Davis averaged 7.8 points and 7.7 rebounds per game last season, the first Clemson freshman to lead the Tigers in rebounding since Tree Rollins turned the trick in 1973-74. The rugged performer finished third in the league in rebounding, the first freshman in seven years to rank that high on the carom charts.

His most outstanding performance took place in March when he had 23 points and 17 rebounds in Clemson's two-point win over Duke, the Blue Devils' last loss until the Final Four. Davis closed the season with a rush as he averaged 17.3 points, 11.8 rebounds and shot 54.3 percent from the field over the last four games, all against clubs that had been ranked in the Top 20 at one time or another in 1987-88.

Three other returning underclassmen lettermen will help in the frontcourt. Sean Tyson (6-7, Jr.) showed flashes of brilliance last season in a reserve post role. The rising junior played in 18 games, two as a starter and scored 5.1 points per game. He also pulled in 2.7 rebounds per outing and shot 48 percent from the field. "We are looking for continued improvement from Sean Tyson," said Ellis. "He did the best defensive job on J.R. Reid out of all of our postmen last season."

Colby Brown (6-8, So.) is a forward who is capable of hitting the wing shot. The native of Georgia scored just 41 points and had 25 rebounds, but an 11-point game at South Carolina when he hit three three-pointers is an indication of his abilities down the road. Rod Mitchell (6-9, Jr.) who came to Clemson to play football, but is now exclusively a basketball player, is another returning letterman in the post. Mack Smith (6-9, Fr.) is a redshirt freshman who will see time as a reserve post player.

WINGS AND GUARDS (1 returning starter, 3 returning lettermen)

Clemson does have three returning lettermen at the backcourt positions in Tim Kincaid, Donnell Bruce and Ricky Jones. But, with the loss of ACC career assist leader Grayson Marshall, a newcomer probably will have to step in and start right from the outset.

"Our recruiting was geared to signing perimeter people," said Ellis, the only coach in ACC history to lead a team to postseason play in each of his first four years as a head coach. "We signed five perimeter people and all can play more than one position, some can play three. Losing Marshall certainly is tough, but in Marion Cash, I think we have a fine point guard. He would look to be Marshall's successor heading into the fall."

"David Young was a high school All-American who we project as a two-guard heading into fall practice, but he is certainly capable of playing the point. He demonstrated in high school and in some all-star games that he is an excellent passer."

"Kirkland Howling shot over 55 percent in junior college from three-point range. I feel good about him because he is the type of pure shooter that we need. Derrick Forrest is a sleeper who has a tremendous vertical jump. We will look at him as a three or two player. Kevin Wills was a sleeper on the high school level from Florida who is a shooter. He was one of the top scorers in Florida last year and has a lot of shooting and ball-handling skills. He made great improvement his senior year."

Tim Kincaid (6-3, Jr.) is the only returning starter in the backcourt. The wing guard surpassed most observers' expectations last year by averaging in double figures (10.3 PPG) and dealing out 128 assists, eighth in the league. He also was one missed field goal attempt away from shooting 50 percent from the field and he was second in the league in free throw percentage at .856.

Donnell Bruce (6-5, So.) had an injury plagued second half of the season. He had his best league game of the year at Duke (15 points), but suffered a broken hand in that game that limited his effectiveness the rest of the season. The 6-5 native of South Carolina averaged 6.7 points per game and was second on the team in three-point goals with 19. The ACC Academic honor roll choice started six of the 25 games he played in during 1987-88.

Ricky Jones (6-7, So.) is the only former McDonald's All-American on the Clemson roster. His career took a turn in the wrong direction in 1986-87 when he had surgery on both his shoulders and he spent 1987-88 trying to catch up. He demonstrated outstanding shooting ability at times, tapes of the Virginia game in Charlottesville will show he hit on 4-4 three-point shots and scored a season high 16 points. The native of Pendleton, SC will work at the wing guard or small forward positions.

Marion Cash (6-3, Jr.) and David Young (6-4, Fr.) rank among the best incoming backcourt combinations in the country for 1988-89. Cash was a first-team junior college All-American according to Basketball Times as he averaged 23.2 points per game and shot 51 percent from the field, including 43 percent from three-point range. The top ranked JUCO point guard in the country by Sporting News averaged 28 points per game his senior year at Laurinburg Prep in North Carolina, but he is a native of The Bronx, NY.

While Cash has been around the country, Young grew up in Clemson's own backyard. The 6-4, 175-pounder averaged 23.6 points, 9.2 assists and 8.7 rebounds per game at Greenville High School in Greenville, SC. He also shot an amazing 64.8 percent from the field, including 54.8 percent on three-point shots. He had a high game of 22 assists and once had 19 rebounds in a game last season.

Kirkland Howling (6-4, Jr.) was the Co-MVP at the Junior College level in California last year. The 6-4, 180-pounder led El Camino JC to a 60-9 record over his career and he averaged 22 points, six rebounds and five assists last year. He also shot 55 percent on three-point shots and hit on 81 percent of his free throws.

Kevin Wills (6-5, Fr.) and Derrick Forrest (6-3, Jr.) were late signees to the Clemson program, but both should contribute this year. Wills averaged 28.5 points per game and 6.1 rebounds per outing at Leonard High School in Florida last year. He was fourth in the state in scoring and was a member of the all-state team. He hit on 54 percent from the field and 82.5 percent from the foul line.

Forrest is a third junior college transfer coming into the Clemson program. The 6-3 player averaged 14.3 points per game and shot 54.6 percent from the field for Chipola JC in Florida this past year. He helped Chipola to a 27-9 record and a berth in the National JC tournament in Hutchinson, Kansas.

Gene Beasley

Beasley Always Makes Things Happen

By Mickey Plyler

"Don't wait for things to happen, make them happen, and ALWAYS expect the unexpected."

These words are often pounded into the heads of Clemson defensive backs by their position coach, Bill Oliver, and Clemson's strong safety Gene Beasley lives these words every day.

Beasley has experienced the unexpected for most of his 21 years, and now it is Oliver's words that he has taken to heart. "Coach Oliver is always saying that, so I decided to take that to the bank," said Beasley. "I've gone through a great deal both on and off the field. There is no such thing as the unexpected anymore. I feel as if I could adapt to most any situation now."

You see, Gene Beasley has experienced more adversity than most of his generation, but through it all, he has adapted well and emerged as the Clemson defender with more tackles over the last two seasons than any returning Clemson player.

As a kid, he was born with polio and wore leg braces until he was six years old.

In August of 1984, Beasley was injured in an automobile accident that left him with two broken legs, a broken collarbone, and a fractured knee. Once again, the unexpected doomed Beasley, forcing him to miss his entire senior year of high school athletics while his future was uncertain.

Beasley did not play defensive back in high school, instead he was a tailback. "I grew up a big Georgia fan. Herschel Walker was at Georgia when I was in high school, and I wore number 34 because I idolized him. I was going to be the one who filled his shoes after he graduated." But Georgia decided not to recruit Beasley after the accident. "I don't blame them. Here I was laying in a hospital with two broken legs and the doctors telling me I might not ever walk again."

Like Coach Oliver says, "Don't wait for things to happen, make them happen . . ." Gene did just that. After a long rehabilitation process, he surprised all and signed with Clemson, on the terms that he would once again adjust and become a defensive back.

The unexpected entered his life again midway through his freshman year at Clemson, only this time the unexpected was a little more kind to Beasley. Due to an injury to Kenny Danforth, the Tigers' starting strong safety, Beasley was forced into action instead of being redshirted as originally planned. He responded with 11 tackles against Wake Forest.

In 1986, Clemson hired Oliver as its new secondary coach, and the unexpected once again came over Beasley. "Coach Oliver moved me to third string when he first got here. I remember him saying to me, 'You will never start for me—you're slow.' He was trying to motivate me and I appreciate that now." Beasley persevered and regained a starting position that he held down for 25 straight games.

Beasley had one of his best all-around games against Furman when he had seven tackles, including one behind the line of scrimmage. He has become famous for his run support as his eight tackles behind the line of scrimmage last season established a new Clemson single season record for a defensive back.

Beasley also became just the fourth player in Clemson history to record two fumble recoveries in a single game. Randy Scott, Jim Scott and Henry Walls are the only other Tigers to do it.

Beasley is a part of what the Sporting News preseason magazine called the best secondary in the country. It is a close secondary and the experience continues to pay off.

Thorpe Award candidate Donnell Woolford says, "I have been around Gene a long time, and I have seen him turn into a leader. He really understands what we are trying to do defensively, and he tries to relay that to the younger guys. He is always telling us what to expect in certain situations."

Beasley would like one more chance for the unexpected, a professional football career. "Coach Oliver always says, 'Gene if you listen to me, you can play with the big boys, (the NFL).'" Oliver should know after coaching for 25 years including stints as the defensive coordinator of the USFL's Memphis Showboats and a head coaching job at UT-Chattanooga. "He always says that he has sent players to the pros that are just like me and he can make me into a good strong safety. I would like a chance to prove to him that I could also adjust to the pro game."

Beasley's determination has payed off and he will carry some good memories with him from Clemson, but perhaps his biggest thrill came last year. It was Beasley's driving tackle that forced Georgia quarterback James Jackson back into the endzone for the safety that brought the Tigers to within two points of the Dawgs. That one play was perhaps the biggest in the 21-20 Clemson win. It was Beasley's brightest moment against the team that he loved as a kid but was ignored by as a high school senior.

Once again, Beasley had lived by the phrase: make things happen.

Beasley had more career tackles than any other Clemson player heading into this season.

Heisman Hopefuls

Two Clemson football players have finished in the top 10 of the Heisman Trophy balloting over the years, Banks McFadden and Steve Fuller. Ironically, they are the only two gridgers in Clemson history to have their jerseys retired. That is not one of the criteria, however, there are many items needed to qualify, including the earning of a Clemson undergraduate degree.

McFadden finished ninth in the 1939 balloting for college football's premier award. Nile Kinnick of Iowa won the trophy, but McFadden got a lot of consideration for leading Clemson to its first bowl game, a 6-3 win over Boston College. Banks recently had his football and basketball jerseys retired at Clemson and might be the only athlete in NCAA history to pull off a "Jersey Double."

Fuller tied for sixth in the voting (82 points) with N.C. State's Ted Brown in 1978. It is ironic that the two players tied that year because both schools' SID offices did a lot of pushing for their respective athletes. Eddie Lee Ivery of Georgia Tech, a team that would join the ACC in a couple of years, was eighth that season and just one point off the total of Fuller and Brown. Billy Sims of Oklahoma won the award that year and Chuck Fusina of Penn State was second.

Clemson in AP Poll

Clemson was ranked in the top five of the preseason AP poll for the first time since 1984 when Danny Ford's team ranked fourth. Of course, the poll everyone is interested in is the final poll of the season. Fourteen times Clemson has ranked in the final poll, while the Tigers have hit the top 20 of the AP in the preseason just 11 times (including this year). Here is a list of Clemson's preseason and final rankings by the AP.

*Only 10 teams ranked, teams 10-20 were listed alphabetically. Thus, there have been only five seasons in which Clemson was ranked in the preseason and the postseason polls (1958, 1959, 1978, 1982, 1987). Last year was the first in which Clemson was ranked in every poll.

National Notes of Interest

- This is the 120th season of college football. The first game of 1988 took place August 27th in Giants Stadium in East Rutherford, NJ when Nebraska beat Texas A&M. The regular season for the 192 teams in Divisions IA and IAA will include 1,086 games. The final game of the regular season takes place in Tokyo on December 4 when Oklahoma State meets Texas Tech.

- Division IA will have the same 104 teams in 1988 it had in 1987. There is just one new team in Division IAA, Liberty University, giving that division 88 teams for 1988. Division II adds 10 schools this year to increase its total to 117, while Division III moves up eight members and will have 217 teams.

NCAA Records that involve Clemson:

- Most Passes in a half: 46, Rodney Williams vs. N.C. State, October 21, 1987.

- Most Field goals attempted, two teams, same game: 12, Clemson (6) vs. Georgia (6), Sept. 17, 1983. Teams combined to make 6, 16-16 tie was final score.

- Former Clemson placekicker Obed Ariri is currently tied for 14th in NCAA history in total field goals made in a career (60). He was the first player in NCAA history to reach 60 field goals in a career.

- Clemson has been the most improved team in the nation on two occasions. In 1948 Clemson made a six-game improvement over 1947, and in 1981 the Tigers made a 5.5-game improvement over 1980.

- The Clemson-South Carolina series ties for the 15th longest series in college football. Clemson leads 49-32-4.

- Since 1971 the NCAA has kept track of games decided on the last play of the game. Clemson's David Treadwell is one of three players who has won games on the last play twice. Max Zendejas of Arizona and Vince Manella of Tulane are the other two players to do it. Treadwell accomplished the feat in 1985 at Virginia Tech and 1986 at Georgia.

- Donnell Woolford's 78-yard punt return against Georgia Tech last year was the fifth longest in the nation in 1987.

INTRODUCING THE Clemson Heritage Plate Collection

★ CELEBRATING CLEMSON'S CENTENNIAL ★ 1889-1989 ★

"An official Licensed Product of Clemson University." Support the Alumni Association and Clemson Athletics through the purchase of this plate.

The Clemson University campus is one of genuine beauty and history... a rich, colorful mix of old and new... wide vistas, narrow paths and classic structures.

The campus radiates from the historic John C. Calhoun mansion to beautiful Lake Hartwell on the west, and to the colorful botanical gardens on the east. Between are the revered landmarks!

Capturing the Spirit

Artist Barrie Van Osdel, best known for paintings that embrace the historical spirit of architectural subjects, has captured all the beauty and charm of Clemson's most remembered campus scenes.

These exquisite paintings featuring Clemson's four most historic homes and buildings, are being reproduced in the finest bone china collectors plates.

Ricardo Hooper

Making The Most Of A Great Opportunity

By Dave Mullaney

"There is no substitute for hard work and effort beyond the call of mere duty. That is what strengthens the soul and ennobles one's character."

—Walter Camp,
Immortal Yale Football Coach

Ricardo Hooper never could have known Walter Camp.

It has been a century since Camp coached his first game for the Elis, incidentally, the same year as Clemson University's founding.

But despite the generation gap that separates them, Hooper seems to have adopted the creed of "The Father of American Football."

"He's a real conscientious type guy," said Woody McCorvey, Hooper's position coach at wide receiver. Whatever his job calls for he's going to put 100 percent effort behind it. He's an overachiever. He's one of those guys that's really going to give you all that he's got."

A 5-foot-10 native of Atlanta, Hooper has made a habit of working hard.

Following a high school career that saw Hooper letter in three sports and earn most valuable player honors in football and baseball, Ricardo came to Clemson in 1984 without a scholarship and walked on the football team. His decision, he said, was based solely on academics. "I wanted to get my degree in four years. That's what I set out to do."

And that is exactly what he did. Hooper received a degree in political science earlier this year (May 6).

But Hooper not only excelled in the classroom, he made a name for himself on the football field and earned an athletic scholarship, enabling him to return for his final year of eligibility as a graduate student, making him the only post-graduate on the squad.

"My degree was first and foremost. And the fact that I was able to earn a scholarship really helped a lot. That was just icing on the cake."

And the cake was pretty impressive.

He didn't just earn a scholarship, quite an impressive accomplishment in its own right, he also fought back from two knee surgeries, including one this past spring, and has caught 22 passes for 301 yards during the previous two seasons. He started seven games last season, including a performance against N.C. State that saw him grab five receptions for 75 yards.

It was, however, an uphill battle.

"It was tough," said Hooper, a 170-pounder. "One time A. J. Johnson (a former Tiger defensive back) hit me. I remember saying to myself, 'Hooper, do you really think you're big enough to play major-college football.' My ribs said, 'If you keep on taking shots like that you're not.'"

"It's really tough to start with, but you just have to believe in yourself."

But, according to Hooper, the hard work has paid dividends.

"You really have to pinch yourself because sometimes I really think it's a dream."

Hooper has played in each of the Tigers' last two bowl appearances and has three receptions for his bowl career. But Ricardo hopes he'll have one more shot at postseason play. In fact, ask him why he returned for his fifth year and he'll tell you, "I'd like to be number one!"

As Hooper looks forward to 1988, he hopes he can be an example of some of the positive things that college athletics can do.

"I would like to see myself as a positive example to other people," said Hooper, who is studying city and regional planning at the graduate school level. "College athletics may have its faults, but it's not all bad. I have had the opportunity as a walk-on to come and earn a scholarship, get a free education and have the chance to work towards a master's degree. Although the system isn't perfect, it does work for some people. You just have to work hard at it."

Hooper was Clemson's only original walk-on starter in 1987.

Hooper already has his undergraduate degree.

Hooper has made the most out of his opportunity in college athletics. Just ask one of his biggest fans.

"Ricardo is one of the success stories you like to read about," Clemson Head Football Coach Danny Ford said. "He is a guy who no one thought was good enough, but who beat the odds and made good. He is a fine young man who is like a coach on the field. We are very proud of him."

Somewhere, Walter Camp must be smiling.

Stadium History

Just before Jess Neely left for Rice University, he gave Clemson a message. "Don't ever let them talk you into building a big stadium," he said. "Put about 10,000 seats behind the Y.M.C.A. That's all you'll ever need."

Instead of following Coach Neely's advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place would take some clearing—there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges.

The crews went to work: clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally, on September 19, 1942, Clemson Memorial Stadium opened with the Tiger football team thrashing Presbyterian College, 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow; and grow and grow.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40's, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron moved on to be a civil engineer in Louisiana.

There are many other stories about the building of the stadium including one stating that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner of the stadium as the concrete was being poured. The story claims the tobacco is still there.

Howard says that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. "About 40 people and I laid the sod on the field," he says. "After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through. I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more weeks' pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have 50 gallons of ice cream when we got through.

"After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard says that on the day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 and we played at 2:00." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added and, in 1960, a total of 5,658 west end zone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large end zone "Green Grass" section, this expansion increased capacity to about 53,000.

Later, upper decks were built on to each side of the stadium as crowds swelled—the first one in 1978 and the second in 1983. This increased capacity to approximately 80,000 which makes it one of the 10 largest on-campus stadiums in the country.

Through the years Memorial Stadium has become known as "Death Valley." It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian coach, Lonnie McMillian. After bringing his P.C. teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, McMillian said the place was like Death Valley. A few years later, the name stuck.

On November 16, 1974 the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to the University.

Strength Training

Clemson has one of the top winning percentages in the nation over the last 10 seasons and this improvement on the gridiron parallels the improvement in the strength training facility. After three major refurbishings in the last eight years Clemson now has one of the best, if not the best, weight rooms in the nation. Over a half a million dollars worth of modern equipment is available as a staff of six weight coaches supervises individual programs for each Tiger griddier.

Gary Wade, former head strength coach of the Detroit Lions, supervises the facility and his knowledge of the profession and the sport in general is second to none. The 8,000 square foot facility comfortably houses the top of the line in Nautilus, AMF Free Weights and Cybex-II equipment. With a recent expansion Clemson now has over 10 tons of free weights, 12 new ceiling fans, a 16-speaker sound system and new windows that let that beautiful South Carolina sunshine into the spacious area. It might be the most pleasant working environment for such strenuous activity in the nation.

No less than eight Clemson players have been strength All-Americans over the last decade, including one each in the last four years. In 1984 Clemson running back Kenny Flowers, the 31st pick of the 1987 NFL draft, was chosen to the team. In 1985, two-time All-ACC tight end Jim Riggs, was a first-team Strength All-American, while in 1986 Ty Granger and his 1100 pound leg press made the squad. Tight end Dan Pearman made it four years in a row for a Tiger on the Strength All-America team.

1987 All-American Michael Dean Perry.

1985 Strength All-American Jim Riggs.

Lady Tiger teams have also benefitted from the strength facility.

CLEMSON TIGER

The Best of Care

Athletes at Clemson have the opportunity to be the best they can be because few universities in the nation have better facilities. The dedicated athlete can excel at Clemson because the facilities make him a better player.

The Jervy Athletic Center is the focal point of Clemson athletics as it houses the strength training facility, the training room, the varsity locker rooms and all administrative offices. Adjacent to the facility are five full practice fields, two of which are lighted. Everything is in walking distance and easily accessible from all other facilities.

The training room is one of the fine facilities in the Jervy Athletic Center. It is run by Fred Hoover, a national Hall of Fame trainer, and it houses all of the latest modern equipment. Hoover heads up a staff of three full-time people with over 41 years of experience. This professional staff and 17 student and graduate student trainers give you the best possible care.

The training room has six whirlpools, a cybex machine, a stationary bike, an upper-body exerciser and all the latest devices for all kinds of treatment. The large sauna and steam bath are also welcome sites after a tough practice. A doctor attends every practice and has an office in the training room itself. He is in the training room from 2:00 PM until closing and is of course available at all hours for special situations.

The training staff is also responsible for the dietary plans of the Clemson gridders. Clemson's training table serves the Clemson football and basketball team in all-you-can-eat fashion every day during the academic year and it provides the athlete with a well-balanced meal planned by dietary experts. These are special dining facilities designed to accommodate the unusual hours of the athlete when he is in season.

The meals are truly luscious, especially after a Clemson victory. A win means "Super Meal" night, as chefs prepare carved roast beef, steak, lobster, shrimp and many other delicacies.

Clemson Memorial Stadium

Just before Jess Neely left for Rice University, he gave Clemson a message. "Don't ever let them talk you into building a big stadium," he said. "Put about 10,000 seats behind the Y.M.C.A. That's all you'll ever need."

Instead of following Coach Neely's advice, however, Clemson officials decided to build the new stadium in a valley on the western part of campus. The place would take some clearing—there were many trees, but luckily there were no hedges.

The crews went to work: clearing, cutting, pouring, and forming. Finally, on September 19, 1942, Clemson Memorial Stadium opened with the Tiger football team thrashing Presbyterian College, 32-13. Those 20,000 seats installed for Opening Day would soon grow; and grow and grow.

When the original part of the stadium was built in the early 40's, much of the work was done by scholarship athletes, including many football players. The first staking out of the stadium was done by two members of the football team, A.N. Cameron and Hugh Webb. Webb returned to Clemson years later to be an architecture professor, and Cameron moved on to be a civil engineer in Louisiana.

The building of the stadium did not proceed without a few problems. One day during the clearing of the land, one young football player proudly announced he was not allergic to poison oak. He then commenced to attack the poison oak with a swing blade, throwing the plants to and fro. The next day, however, the boy was swollen twice his size and had to be put in the hospital.

There are many other stories about the building of the stadium including one stating that Frank Howard put a chew of tobacco in each corner of the stadium as the concrete was being poured. The story claims the tobacco is still there.

Howard says that the seeding of the grass caused a few problems. "About 40 people and I laid the sod on the field," he says. "After three weeks, on July 15, we had only gotten halfway through. I told them that it had taken us three weeks to get that far, and I would give them three more weeks' pay for however long it took. I also told them we would have 50 gallons of ice cream when we got through.

"After that it took them three days to do the rest of the field. Then we sat down in the middle of the field and ate up that whole 50 gallons."

Howard says that on the day of the first game in the stadium, "the gates were hung at 1:00 and we played at 2:00." But that would be all of the construction for a while. Then in 1958, 18,000 sideline seats were added and, in 1960, a total of 5,658 West end zone seats were added in response to increasing attendance. With the large end zone "Green Grass" section, this expansion increased capacity to about 53,000.

Later, upper decks were added to each side of the stadium as crowds swelled—the first one in 1978 and the second in 1983. This increased capacity to approximately 80,000 which makes it one of the 10 largest on-campus stadiums in the country.

The effect spiraling inflation has had in this century can be dramatically seen in the differences in stadium construction. The original part of the stadium was built at a cost of $125,000 or $6.25 a seat. The newest upper deck was finished in 1983 at a cost of $13.5 million, or $866 a seat.

Through the years Memorial Stadium has become known as "Death Valley." It was tagged this by the late Presbyterian coach, Lonnie McMillian. After bringing his P.C. teams to Clemson for years and getting whipped, Mc-

Millian said the place was like Death Valley. A few years later, the name stuck.

On November 16, 1974 the playing surface was named Frank Howard Field for the legendary coach because of his long service and dedication to the University.

Athletic Director Bobby Robinson says that Memorial Stadium has many features which make it a top facility. "One thing that makes it so good is the number of sideline seats," he says. "We don't think there is a bad seat in the house.

"We also have outstanding dressing rooms, press facilities, and ample parking nearby. A unique feature of the stadium is the number of private boxes."

Rick Brewer, an official in the University athletic ticket office says that despite the stadium's large size, there are still season ticket problems. "When the second upper deck was built, we thought it would take care of everything," he said. "To our dismay, it hasn't. We've filled the upper decks and have moved season ticket holders into the end zone, which are not permanent seats."

Despite the apparent ticket crunch, Robinson says there are no immediate plans to further expand the stadium. "Before we expand we'll have to show over an extended length of time—like five to seven years—that we can sell out what we have now," he said. "We don't want supply to greatly exceed demand. Even though it's hard to get tickets now, we still get people in our stadium. The ticket means more if it's harder to get."

But, if Memorial Stadium is expanded again and capacity is pushed closer to 100,000, there will be room for the construction over the west stands, enclosing that end like a horseshoe.

Luckily, the stadium wasn't built behind the Y.

Clemson has increased its capacity by about 25,000 over the last 10 years, not to mention countless other aesthetic improvements.

Today's Band Program

By Dave Mullaney

From the Big Band sounds of Glenn Miller to a contemporary hit by Luther Vandross, Tiger Band's halftime show for this afternoon's nationally-televised game against Florida State is sure to be a crowd pleaser.

"This show will appeal to fans of all ages," said Richard Goodstein, Tiger Band's associate director. "We've got some music from the Big Band Era of the '30s, swing music, and we've got some contemporary music in the same show. There's something for everybody."

The Tiger Band will open its halftime performance with a "Swing Spectacular." A medley of three songs, the "Swing Spectacular" includes two 1939 Glenn Miller hits, "In The Mood" and "Tuxedo Junction." Also, Count Basie's 1938 composition, "At The Woodside," is included in John Higgins' arrangement. Percussion parts were written by Will Rapp.

Buddy Rich's "Sambandrea Swing" is next as the Flag Corps and Twirlers are featured. The 1981 composition was arranged by Johnny Edmunds.

The Tiger Band will next perform another medley, Stan Kenton's "Here's That Rainy Day" (1953).

Music from the 1975 Broadway hit, "The Wiz," will be next as Tiger Band plays, "A Brand New Day," popularized by pop and R&B star, Luther Vandross.

Tiger Band will complete its jazz performance as the percussion section is featured in "The Room Is Spinning," written, incidentally, by former Clemson band student, Mark Biering.

"The Room Is Spinning" is performed entirely by the percussion section, a unit considered to be possibly the finest drum line that Tiger Band has put on the field.

"It's one of the finest drum lines Clemson has ever had," said Joel Winchip, a senior from Columbia and one of the percussion section's co-captains. "This unit picks up things incredibly quick. In fact, this is the first year we had to actually turn people away on the drum line. That is something that the Tiger Band is not accustomed to doing."

The other captain of the percussion section is Steve Hall, a junior from Atlanta.

"This show should be a lot of fun," Hall said. "The music is interesting. I especially like the "Sambandrea Swing," although the percussion parts are difficult."

The percussion section is comprised of eight snare drums, four multiple drums, five bass drums, eight cymbals and five keyboard percussionists. The new addition is among the multiple drums, where the Tiger Band has added "quints," which has five drums in one. The Tiger Band is also sporting new Yamaha drums this year.

"New drums, a drum feature and a national audience; we couldn't have picked a better game," Winchip said.

Prior to the game, the Tiger Band will take to the field and play "Sock it to 'em," and then the Song That Shakes The Southland, TIGER RAG, as Louis Holmes, a former member of the Clemson Board of Trustees, dots the "I" when the Tiger Band forms script "Tigers."

The pregame show continues as the Tiger Band plays "You're A Grand Ole Flag," and "America The Beautiful," directed by Dr. Goodstein and accompanied by the Clemson University Chorus.

The invocation will then be offered by Steve Ashworth of the Clemson Campus Ministers' Association and the Clemson Church of Christ.

Directed by Dr. Bruce Cook, the Tiger Band will next play "The Star-Spangled Banner" with Company C-4 of the Pershing Rifles presenting the colors. The chorus and band will then lead the Tiger faithful in the Alma Mater, directed by Dr. Mark Jessie.

Billy Baker and Deanna Taylor are the Tiger Band drum majors for 1988.

Clemson Extension Service Helping Our Environment

By Tom Lollis

ASK EXTENSION

They'll tackle anything from ostriches to vanishing tomatoes.

Questions! Questions! Questions!

The folks at your local Clemson University Extension Service office get a lot of them—40, 50 or 60 a day is not unusual.

"Usually callers need information on a subject that one of our staff is trained to answer," says Allen Bayles, chairman for the Extension Service office in Aiken County. That covers a wide range of topics in areas such as agriculture, home horticulture, home economics, nutrition, community and youth development.

Home horticulture questions, hands down, are the most popular subjects with callers concerned about maintaining a good-looking lawn, shrubs or flowers.

Pests also rank near the top of the list.

"What can I do about cockroaches?" is probably the most common pest question, according to Bayles. Root-eating pine voles, mole-like animals about the size of small mice, also pester many Aiken County residents.

"My introduction to voles came from a woman who said her tomato plants were going backwards into the ground. She said they were three feet tall in the morning, and by lunch they were down to only two and a half feet," he recalls.

"At first I thought she had an alcohol problem. It turned out that voles were eating the tomato plants from the bottom and pulling them down," says Bayles.

Unfortunately, he doesn't know a good way to control voles. An anti-coagulant, such as rat poison, is the only method he knows, but "you have to wait until they come up and eat the bait." You also have to be careful to keep the poison out of the reach of pets and small children.

Some of the questions are doozies, such as:

"Is there enough selenium in the soil in Aiken County to provide a llama with a balanced diet, or will I have to supplement its feed with selenium?" (The answer was that selenium levels in local soil would not provide the amount llamas need for good hair quality.)

His office has also been asked about handling facilities for ostrich production, how to stop a woodpecker from pecking on the eaves of a house, why pickles turn out soft instead of crisp, how to make play clay for a child, whether a case of pineapple fresh from Hawaii can be frozen, and whether violets are poisonous.

Some of the toughest phone calls come from people who expect a county agent to diagnose a weed, insect or disease problem from the caller's description of the problem.

"We would much rather have the individual bring us a sample of the weed, insect or disease," says Bayles. If he is still stumped after seeing the plant, he can send it to experts on the main campus for diagnosis.

Sometimes callers must be referred to other agencies. People wanting to get married, for example, are sent to the courthouse.

Bayles' wildest phone call came when he was on the Extension Service staff in Sumter.

"I had a man ask me how to exhume a body. It seems he was afraid his buddy had been buried with his pacemaker, and he didn't want a treasure hunter using a metal detector in the next century digging him up," he says.

"I referred him to the coroner."

Clemson Comebacks

Clemson Has Won Eight Games In The Fourth Quarter Over The Last Three Years

By Annabelle Vaughan

Clemson football fans see many things on a Saturday afternoon at Death Valley that they probably wouldn't see in any other stadium. They see the beautiful Blue Ridge Mountains and Lake Hartwell. They see thousands of people dressed in orange with Tiger Paws on their faces. They see a Tiger doing pushups and a team running down the hill.

But there is one thing Clemson fans will probably not see much of at a Clemson football game: fans leaving early, even when the Tigers are behind. Many Clemson fans have learned their lesson about leaving a game late in the fourth quarter when things look hopeless. Over the past three seasons, the Tigers have overcome a fourth-quarter deficit to win or tie a game eight times. In five of the eight games, the Tigers scored with less than a minute left on the clock.

It would seem that the Tigers' solid ground-oriented offense (eighth best in the country over the last five years) would not be conducive to coming-from-behind late in the game. This role is usually reserved for teams with flashy air shows. But the final scores show that in situations when they are down late in the game, the Tigers are not likely to stay that way.

Rodney Williams has quarterbacked 15 fourth-quarter wins in the last seven years.

Over the past three seasons, the name David Treadwell has become synonymous with coming-from-behind. Six of these last chance efforts have been capped off by Treadwell field goals. In his very first collegiate football game, the future All-American booted a 36-yarder to defeat Virginia Tech in 1985. And who can forget Treadwell kicking the Tigers to back-to-back victories against the Georgia Bulldogs in 1986 and 1987. His tying field goal against Maryland in 1986 gave the Tigers a conference championship and a boot at North Carolina in 1987 led to another important conference victory.

David Treadwell has since hung up his orange pants, an event that most Clemson opponents are thankful for. But they had better not count their blessings too quickly. Treadwell's longest kick in a come-from-behind situation was a 46-yarder, yet his average kick in these circumstances was under 32 yards. Because he had an offense that would put him in position to score, his confidence became a greater asset than his right foot.

According to Clemson's coaches, confidence is the key to final success. "A champion football team has that quality over other teams," said quarterback coach Jack Crowe. "Our team's personality is one of poise and confidence. Usually someone will stand out as making the big play in a come-from-behind situation, but if the whole team is not confident that someone will make the big play, and they don't put him in the situation to make it, we lose the ball game."

Confidence is easily won when your team is ahead, but being confident when you are down and time rapidly running out is a different situation. "We prepare for that situation from the very first day of practice," said Crowe. "We put two minutes on the clock and try to score. So when our team is actually in that situation, we don't have to go to plan B. We stick to our basic game plan and make it work for us."

Offensive coordinator Chuck Reedy agrees. "The factor that makes us successful even when we are down is being patient. We stick with what is good and try not to get in a hurry."

The Tigers' "basic game plan" is to grind their way down the field on the ground, and it definitely has been "good" to the Tigers. Looking at the eight drives leading to these come-from-behind efforts, that is exactly what they have done. Against Maryland in 1986, the Tigers were at their own eight-yard line with only 7:01 remaining in the game. In 18 plays, the offense drove to the Maryland two where Treadwell kicked a 21-yard field goal with only two seconds on the clock. Out of the 18 plays, only two were passes covering just six yards.

Against Georgia in 1987, the Tigers had 53 yards to cover before they got in field goal range. They did it in only nine plays, running 5:38 off the clock and throwing no passes. In the game-winning touchdown drive against Duke last season, the Tiger offense covered 97 yards, throwing only two passes. Fullback Tracy Johnson banged out 60 yards on that drive and scored the winning touchdown. Johnson's hard-nosed running also spelled the difference at Chapel Hill in 1987. In 18 plays, the Tigers covered 67 yards, throwing no passes. Johnson, playing a few miles down the road from his hometown of Kannapolis, was responsible for 37 of those yards.

Clemson's offense has definitely broken the stereotype of what makes a team successful in a come-from-behind situation. This success is rapidly breeding more success as the Tigers build a tradition as being a force to be reckoned with when they are behind. "It has happened so many times that our players have confidence that they can take the ball 90 yards if they have to," said Reedy. "I believe that when they are in the huddle, all 11 players have confidence in each other. They know they can do it."

A confident huddle is usually the result of a confident quarterback, and Clemson's quarterback has had plenty of experience in dire situations. Rodney Williams has been the starting quarterback in seven of the Tigers' eight come-from-behind wins or ties over the past three years. In high school, he led the Irmo Yellow Jackets to eight come-from-behind wins.

"Rodney has had plenty of experience in that situation and he definitely brought it to Clemson with him," said Crowe. "He knows that he doesn't have to take the game over, he just has to do his thing like he always does."

"I have learned to never let up," said Williams. "The hardest part of my job in that situation is to keep everybody under control and going in the right direction. I am a fairly level-headed person, so I normally stay calm. The rest of the offense just follows my lead. But every time we do something well, we are more confident the next time we are in that situation. That makes all of our jobs a little easier."

The Clemson offense does not deserve all of the credit for bringing the Tigers out of the hole. After all, if the ball is not in their hands, it would be much more difficult to score. Over the past three seasons, the Tiger defense has done its part by holding the opponents scoreless late in the game and giving the offense a chance to do their thing.

Treadwell won or tied five games with kicks inside the last 40 seconds.

Against Georgia in 1986, the Tigers caused and recovered a fumble late in the fourth quarter with the score tied at 28-28, halting a Bulldog drive. Later that season at Maryland, the Terrapins went ahead 17-14 before getting the ball back on a fumble. The Clemson defense held the Terps to only two yards on that possession and gave the offense a second chance. The result: a tie and a conference championship.

Last season, after the Tiger special teams downed a Georgia punt at the one-yard line, the defense swarmed the 'Dawgs, downing quarterback James Jackson in the endzone for a safety, bringing Clemson within two and giving the ball back to the Tiger "O". After the Tigers went up by seven points on the Duke Blue Devils in 1987, Duke began threatening late in the fourth quarter. All-America cornerback Donnell Woolford rose to the occasion and intercepted a Blue Devil pass, giving the ball back to the Tigers for the remainder of the game.

"The defense has to challenge the offense," said defensive backfield coach Bill Oliver. "You have to make your opponent beat you and you have to be careful not to beat yourself. The defense has to be aware of many factors: how much time is left, how many points we are behind, how many timeouts each team has left, how many yards to a first down. But those things are easy because they are all on the scoreboard. The hard thing is to be calm, cool and collected. If you keep your head, it's easy to react to the situation at hand."

With 15 come-from-behind wins under his belt as a high school and college quarterback, Rodney Williams has learned the lesson many Tiger fans have learned. "Playing for Clemson, I have learned never to let up," he said. "And more importantly, I have learned that we haven't lost the ball game until the last second ticks off the clock."

Clemson's 4th Quarter Wins

Here is a list of games since Danny Ford has been head coach in which Clemson has scored the last points of the game in the fourth quarter to erase a deficit or tie and win or tie the game.

Year	Opponent	Score	Deciding Play	Time

IPTAY

America's Top Fundraising Organization

For the second consecutive year the Clemson athletic program can boast of 10 teams that finished the year ranked among the nation's Top 20.

This success comes at a time when spiralling costs make running a comprehensive athletic program increasingly difficult.

Clemson has met the challenge. But not without the help of IPTAY, one of the nation's premier athletic scholarship fundraising organizations.

IPTAY, which stands for "I Pay Thirty A Year," finances the education of nearly 400 student-athletes, trainers and managers each year. Due to the support provided by the organization, now in its 54th year, Clemson is one of the few schools in the nation that is able to award the maximum number of scholarships allowed by the NCAA for its 18 men's and women's varsity sports.

IPTAY recently received national acclaim as it was featured in SPORTS INC., a weekly publication devoted to the business of sports. And, at the first convention of the Athletic Fund-raisers of America, held in June in Atlanta, IPTAY was one of the featured topics of discussion.

The organization is supported by over 20,000 dues-paying members who have enabled IPTAY to enjoy its 24th consecutive increase in annual donations. The tremendous growth of IPTAY has also made it the first athletic organization in the country to top the two, three, four and five million dollar marks in annual donations. The organization expects to approach $6 million in donations this fiscal year.

IPTAY's contributions have helped make Clemson's facilities second to none.

The success of IPTAY has enabled the organization to modify its purpose beyond the financing of scholarships to include the fiscal foundation for athletic facilities.

In recent years IPTAY has provided the funding for the addition of the upper deck on the north side of Memorial Stadium, an indoor tennis facility and the addition of a soccer facility, which proved to be an especially timely move. The new soccer field enabled Clemson to play host to the 1987 NCAA men's soccer Final Four, where the Tigers proceeded to capture the national title.

IPTAY will now turn its attention to the enlargement of Tiger Field, home of the ACC regular-season champion Clemson baseball team. An addition will provide permanent seating for 3,000, will house indoor batting cages, locker rooms and extended press facilities.

The Tiger Band has also benefited from IPTAY's success. New uniforms were provided for the band in 1986. IPTAY also handled the band's travel expenses, providing a commitment of over $200,000.

Since the Tiger athletic program receives no university or state funding, the story of IPTAY is especially impressive. So impressive, in fact, that for six consecutive years allocations from student fees have been returned to the university by the athletic department.

While IPTAY has primarily been concerned with athletic fundraising, the organization's commitment to Clemson University extends beyond the playing field. The IPTAY Athletic Academic Endowment Scholarship Fund, created during the fall of 1984 to award students whose performance in the classroom warranted distinction, is currently the second-largest academic scholarship endowment at Clemson. The fund is presently nearing the $1 million mark. IPTAY also provides one of the most progressive tutorial programs in the country, where student-athletes are given the opportunity to call on the services of a highly-trained academic advising staff.

The tremendous success of IPTAY can be attributed, in large part, to its organization which, affords the group a great deal of "grassroot" support. Each of South Carolina's 46 counties has an IPTAY chairman, while every county is allotted one representative for every 36 members.

Every member is kept abreast of Clemson athletics through the ORANGE AND WHITE. As the official publication of IPTAY, the ORANGE AND WHITE is exclusively distributed to IPTAY members.

With the continued assistance provided by IPTAY, Clemson University will continue to enjoy national prominence athletically and academically.

Centennial Celebration

This past April 6 was a great day for Clemson. It marked the beginning of the university's second century of teaching, research and public service. As the official beginning of Clemson's Centennial celebration, county Extension offices along with local alumni and Clemson Clubs across the state hosted local ceremonies to unfurl the new Clemson flag and fly it for the first time. Meanwhile, a main-campus ceremony featured university leaders, Congressman Butler Derrick and Senators Strom Thurmond and Ernest Hollings. Noting that the day also marked the 100th anniversary of the death of Thomas Green Clemson, President Max Lennon said, "We do not honor his death; rather we celebrate the tremendous gift to the citizens of South Carolina made possible by his will." Thus began the 20-month celebration that will honor the founder and the founding of our university.

Clemson's establishment didn't happen overnight. It took almost two years for the state to accept the gift of land and money provided by Mr. Clemson's will for "a college for all the people." It seems only fair that we spend the same amount of time celebrating—and reflecting upon—the many contributions Clemson has made to South Carolina.

Just as Clemson is made up of a diverse group of alumni, students, staff and faculty, so the Centennial celebration reflects our different interests. The focus of the first phase last spring was "The University and the Arts," with a burst of cultural events capped by a lecture by opera star Beverly Sills.

This fall the focus will be "The University and the Sciences," with environmentalist John McKetta delivering the central lecture. "The University and the Economy" next spring will feature a visit by Nobel Prize-winning economist George Stigler, and the final focus, "The University and the Wider World," will bring William F. Buckley to the campus to speak.

It may seem that all we're doing to celebrate is listening to speeches. Wrong! Each college has planned individual activities, and the town of Clemson even got involved and held a "Happy Birthday, Clemson" picnic in Bowman Field in June. More festivities are planned throughout the Centennial period.

In fact, consider this your invitation to our big public birthday party the weekend of April 1, 1989. "Cornerstone Weekend" will feature a campus-wide exhibition and open house, a parade, fireworks, tours, the continuous showing of a new Clemson film, performances, the annual Spring Game, and the replacing of the Tillman Hall cornerstone, filled with new mementos for the second century.

The Centennial is more than just a party. It's even more than just an intellectual exercise. It's an opportunity for all the Clemson family to celebrate together our origin, our progress so far, and the promise the future holds. If only Mr. Clemson could see what he started!

Assistant Coaches

Cohesive Staff in its Third Year as a Unit

TOM HARPER is entering his eighth season as assistant head coach for the Tigers. The former Wake Forest head coach also guides the Tiger defensive line. Harper came to Clemson from Virginia Tech, where he served as defensive coordinator and defensive line coach. A native of Piqua, Ohio, Harper also served as the defensive coordinator at Iowa State (1974-75) and North Carolina (1976-77). He earned his bachelor's degree from the University of Kentucky in 1955 and, in 1958, he received a master's degree in education administration from the same institution. Harper lettered in three sports for the Wildcats and earned three letters as a tackle. His recruiting responsibilities include New York and South Carolina. Since coming to Clemson, he has overseen a defense that has had 19 players drafted by the NFL. Harper has had a hand in coaching six ACC championship teams, four at Clemson.

MILES ALDRIDGE joined the Clemson staff on June 28, 1985 after a two-year stint at Duke. A native of Kansas City, MO, Aldridge coaches the inside linebackers. A 1971 graduate of Gardner-Webb College, Aldridge began coaching on the collegiate level at East Tennessee State (1973-77) prior to stints at Wichita State (1978) and Tulsa (1979). He recruits the lower part of South Carolina, Philadelphia and New Jersey.

WAYNE BOLT is in his third year with Clemson as he joined the Tiger staff on March 10, 1986. His responsibilities include coaching the tight ends and kickoff return teams. He is also the football dorm director and does not recruit off campus. Bolt's first season as a Tiger coach saw him coach an All-ACC tight end (Jim Riggs), while his kickoff return team led the nation in average return, just the second team statistical championship in Clemson history. Bolt earned all-conference and All-America honors during his playing career as an offensive guard for East Carolina (1974-77). He began his coaching career as a graduate assistant for the Pirates. He then spent a year at Wyoming before moving on to Auburn in

JACK CROWE joined the Clemson staff on February 24, 1986, as the Tiger quarterback coach. He came to Clemson from Auburn, where he served as offensive coordinator under Pat Dye and coached Heisman Trophy winner Bo Jackson. He has also been offensive coordinator at Wyoming and North Alabama, and was both an assistant and head coach at Livingston University. Crowe received his undergraduate degree in chemistry from Alabama-Birmingham in 1970, and completed his master's degree in education from Livingston in 1973. The Fairfield, AL, native is responsible for recruiting Georgia, Virginia, Washington, DC, and Alabama.

BILL D'ANDREA rejoined the Clemson staff on June 23, 1986 after spending two seasons at Southern Mississippi. Prior to that he was a graduate assistant coach at East Carolina, a full-time assistant at the University of Virginia, Massanutten Military Academy and Catawba College. He also spent two years (1983-84) at Clem-

CLEMSON STAFF 1988: (Front row L-R) Jack Crowe, Bill Oliver, Larry Van Der Heyden, Head Coach Danny Ford, Chuck Reedy, Woody McCorvey, Head Trainer Fred Hoover. (Back row) Assistant A. D. son as a graduate assistant. D'Andrea received his bachelor's degree from Indiana State in 1973, and completed his master's degree in 1975. He lacks only a few semester hours from receiving a second master's degree. He coaches the offensive tackles and recruits North Carolina, Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

WOODY McCORVEY is in his sixth year on the Tiger coaching staff, where he coaches the wide receivers. For three years he coached the Tigers' tight ends, and for two of those seasons he coached the All-ACC tight end. This is his third season coaching the wide receivers. His recruiting responsibilities include eastern North Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi and Florida. McCorvey came to Clemson from Alabama A&M where he was offensive coordinator for four years. The 1972 Alabama State graduate lettered four years in football at the school before earning his physical education degree. He received a master's degree in health, leisure, and sports from the University of West Florida in 1977.

BILL OLIVER is in his third season as the defensive secondary coach. He also recruits for the Tigers in Florida, Alabama and Georgia. A native of Livingston, AL, he began his collegiate coaching career as defensive secondary coach at Auburn, and five years later was hired by the late

Paul "Bear" Bryant to fill the same position at Alabama. His most recent stint prior to coming to Clemson, however, was with the Memphis Showboats of the United States Football League, where he served as senior defensive coordinator and secondary coach. Oliver was a member of the 1961 undefeated National Championship Alabama team, and he received his bachelor's degree in 1962. In the two years he has been at Clemson, the Tigers have led the ACC in completion percentage defense and fewest yards per attempt allowed.

CHUCK REEDY is in his 11th season as the Tigers' running back coach. His recruiting territory includes South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, New England and New York. The St. Augustine, FL, native earned two letters in football from Appalachian State, where he was a 1971 graduate in health and physical education. He came to Clemson from Kentucky on July 5, 1978. No less than 12 former Clemson running backs who have been coached by Reedy have been drafted or signed free agent contracts. Six players he has coached have either played in the NFL or were selected in the first two rounds of the NFL draft. Seven of the top 10 single season individual rushing performances have taken place under Reedy, and seven of his former players were in the NFL last year.

LARRY VAN DER HEYDEN joined the Clemson staff on January 5, 1979. A native of Brazil, Iowa, Van Der Heyden coaches the offensive line and recruits upper South Carolina, North Carolina and western Pennsylvania. He came to Clemson after coaching stints at Memphis State, Virginia, East Carolina, Indiana State, Drake and Iowa State. He was a three-time letterwinner in football and baseball at both Moline (IL) High and at Iowa State. He earned two degrees from Iowa State, a bachelor's in physical education in 1962, and a master's in education in 1968. A member of the Big-Eight all-conference football team in 1961, he was selected to the all-time Iowa State team by former players and coaches.

TOMMY WEST is in his seventh season coaching the Clemson defensive and bandit ends. His recruiting territory includes Florida and Georgia, and he also follows junior college athletes across the country. Prior to his arrival at Clemson, West coached at Appalachian State until July of 1982. A native of Gainesville, GA, West earned his bachelor's degree in health education from the University of Tennessee in 1975 after lettering three years in football and baseball. A fine all-around athlete, West was a second-round draft pick out of high school by the Chicago Cubs.

Rusty Seyle

Confidence Is The Key

By Annabelle Vaughan

Every position in football requires a different skill. A lineman needs strength to get his job done down in the trenches. Running backs and defensive backs need speed and quickness to find that hole or to keep a wide receiver from making a catch. A quarterback has to be able to read the different defenses and know what option to take.

For a kicker, the most important skill to possess is not a physical one. A strong leg is, of course, a necessity, but not primary. If a kicker could not kick, he wouldn't be a kicker. Instead a kicker's most important asset is his confidence. And for Clemson kicker Rusty Seyle, it is the sole thing that makes him successful.

Seyle has been with the Clemson football team since 1984 when he walked on as a true freshman. Since that time, the 6-1, 182-pound kicker from Savannah, GA has learned confidence from some excellent teachers. The first year he walked-on, Donald Igwebuike was the Tigers' premiere placekicker. A fellow named Dale Hatcher was handling the punting that season. As a freshman, Seyle got to spend his afternoons on the practice field kicking with those two future pros.

After redshirting the next year, Seyle and another kicker were battling for the placekicker's duties. When the first game rolled around, the other kicker got the call as Danny Ford literally flipped a coin during the first half of that VPI game and chose Treadwell. David Treadwell began his illustrious career with the Tigers by winning that VPI game with a last-second field goal.

Last season, Seyle finally got his chance as he beat out 20 other punters in the preseason to win the starting job. He also handled the kickoff duties for the Tigers last season. It was the first time Seyle had punted since high school, but he rose to the occasion. It was his punt that was downed at the one-yard line against Georgia last year, leading to the Tigers' safety and field goal on the ensuing kickoff, in a 21-20 win.

"When I finally got my chance, I felt I was ready," Seyle said. "It had really helped watching all those other great kickers for three years. They couldn't really teach me anything about technique because I am a straight-on kicker. But they helped teach me a lot about the mental aspects of the game. They taught me about the importance of confidence.

"Kicking is more mental than physical. It's probably 90% mental and only 10% habit. Physically, you do the same thing every single day, so there's not much to it. Mentally, it's a struggle. When I first started kicking, I worried about getting one blocked and I strived to get that perfect kick every time. Now I know that I can't worry about that. If you do, you aren't concentrating on simply kicking the ball. When I go out to kick, I just concentrate on myself and the snapper, just like we're on the practice field. I don't think of anybody rushing or anybody blocking. Just me, the snapper and the ball."

Last season, Seyle proved that he was worthy of everybody's confidence. His average was only 37.9 yards per punt, but he had four straight games over 39 yards a boot to close the season. He had five punts inside the five-yard line last season, including two against Georgia. At the beginning of the 1988 season, the former walk-on was named second-team All-Conference by the Sporting News.

"I don't have the strongest leg in the world, but I think I get the ball off quickly," Seyle continued. "I try to be consistent.

But I have learned that if I do have one bad kick, I just have to forget about it and concentrate on being confident the next time I go out there. I have seen kickers kick well, then hit one bad one and their confidence is messed up for the rest of the game. I don't ever want that to happen to me.

"The other players are confident in me and that helps me have confidence in myself. If I have a bad kick, they know I didn't do it on purpose. They encourage me to go back and do it right the next time."

Seyle feels that he has improved his abilities as well as his confidence each year he has kicked for the Tigers. "I learned a lot from David (Treadwell). When I first got here, if I kicked badly, it would really mess me up. David taught me not to worry about it." Treadwell and Seyle became best friends during their kicking days together and even spent a year as roommates. This season, Seyle has taken over the role of instilling confidence in the younger kickers.

"Rusty has tried to help me in every way he can," said freshman kicker Chris Gardocki. "He has made me feel real comfortable and real confident. We don't compete against each other, we work with each other. Not only is he a good kicker, but he is a great person. He has definitely made things easier for me."

Rusty Seyle has not had a punt returned against him so far this season.

Seyle had four punts inside the 20 against Furman last week.

Hall of Famers

Seven Former Tigers Join The Honored Group

By Sheri West

In order to honor historic contributors to Clemson athletics, the athletic department established the Clemson Athletic Hall of Fame in 1973. This year the Hall extends membership to seven former athletes and coaches, increasing its total number to 95 honorees.

BOB BURNS
Men's Tennis (1958-62)

BOB BURNS continues to top the list for best career winning percentage in Clemson tennis history. His records of 60-11 in singles and 23-5 in doubles translate to percentages of .845 and .821 respectively. Many current pros have come to Clemson and failed to eclipse his records.

In 1959, his first year on the team, Burns played number-three singles and progressed to the quarterfinals of the ACC tournament. He held the number-one position on the team during both of his last two seasons.

Burns didn't compete during the '61 season, but helped recruit for the upcoming year. In 1962, however, he returned to lead a team that had failed to win a match the previous year to a 14-1 record and second-place conference finish. Burns reached the finals of the ACC tournament his senior year and was also the South Carolina Collegiate Champion in 1962. In 1960 he became the first Clemson player to compete in the U. S. Open.

During his Naval Career, Burns served in Vietnam and worked as an instructor at the U. S. Naval Academy where he was an assistant tennis coach. Currently stationed in Charleston, he oversees the Navy JROTC programs in North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia.

CHARLIE BUSSEY
Football (1953-57)

CHARLIE BUSSEY was the Tigers' starting quarterback during the fall of 1956, his senior season. As Captain of the 1956 team and an All-ACC selection, he led the Tigers to the conference championship and a '57 Orange Bowl bid. In spite of a strong second half comeback, Clemson came up short, losing to Colorado 27-21.

Twice an Academic All-ACC selection and also named Third-team Academic All-American, Bussey graduated in 1957 with a degree in textile manufacturing. He worked briefly with Callaway Mills before entering the Air Force pilot training program. He served as an instructor-pilot for over eight years before being discharged as a captain in 1968.

Bussey then became associated with Laurens Glass & Indian Head Co. Since 1983 he has worked with Louis P. Batson Company as the Marketing Director. He is a past president of IPTAY and is still active in Alumni Affairs. His three daughters also attended Clemson. Laurie worked as a student assistant in the sports information office and both Pam and Jennie were elected Homecoming Queen.

DWIGHT CLARK
Football (1975-78)

DWIGHT CLARK has enjoyed football success both as a Tiger and as a member of the San Francisco 49'ers. A four-year letterman from 1975-78, Clark started 10 of 12 games at flanker his senior season. He had a separated shoulder his senior year and that limited his performance. However, he finished strong with 23 receptions for 179 total receiving yards. Clark's biggest catch of the season came against Maryland where a 62-yard reception tied the score at 21. The Tigers later scored the winning touchdown and won the ACC title.

Although Clark played in the shadow of teammate Jerry Butler (another Clemson Hall of Famer), he had an extra opportunity to show his talent when roommate Steve Fuller asked him to catch some passes during a visit from the San Francisco scouts. They were impressed by what they saw and made Clark the 49'ers 10th round choice in 1979.

As a wide receiver for San Francisco, Clark continued to shine. Leading the NFC in receiving yards and the NFL in total receptions in 1982, he was an All-Pro selection and named Player-of-the-Year by Sports Illustrated. He participated in two Pro Bowls and both the 1981 and 1984 Super Bowls.

Clark wrapped up his playing career last season and now owns a restaurant in San Francisco called "Dwight's."

BOB SMITH
Football/Baseball Coach
(1950-69)

BOB SMITH coached both football and baseball during his 28 years with the Tigers.

He began his collegiate sports career as a scholarship athlete at Furman University where he was a three-sport standout in football, basketball, and baseball. Twice all-state in both football and basketball, he was captain of the football and baseball teams his senior year (1934). He was employed as head basketball coach and assistant football coach after graduation.

Smith entered the U. S. Navy in 1942 and served at Naval Air Stations in Florida, Washington state, and Hawaii. He earned the rank of Lt. Commander and coached all sports to navy aviators. After the war he returned to Furman as head football coach and athletic director until he entered private business in 1948. He has also been inducted into the Furman Athletic Hall of Fame.

Clemson named Smith head baseball coach and assistant football coach in 1950. His first season as the line coach the Tigers had a regular season record of 8-0-1 on their way to the '51 Orange Bowl where they defeated Miami 15-14. Four years later, in 1954, Smith coached Clemson to its first ACC Baseball Championship and was named Coach-of-the-Year.

After the 1957 season, he went full time to football as the line coach and later as defensive coordinator. While at Clemson, Smith also took over the management of the Fike Fieldhouse and was instrumental in developing Jervy Meadows with the addition of football practice fields, the golf practice area, and the track. He retired from his coaching and other duties in 1978.

Smith was named an Honorary Associate of the Clemson Alumni Association and is an honorary member of the Tiger Lettermans Club. He is a member of Tiger Brotherhood and has been a continuous member of IPTAY since 1950. Smith and his wife, Catherine, have remained residents of Clemson and are avid supporters of Clemson athletics.

CRAIG WHITE
Baseball (1969-73)

CRAIG "WIZZARD" WHITE was named the ACC's baseball Player-of-the-Year in 1973, and with good reason. This outfielder from Fairfax, VA led the conference in almost every category as a hitter including runs scored (29), hits (44), doubles (11), total bases (84), and RBI (31). Consistently strong throughout his years at Clemson, his league-leading eight home runs matched the mark he set as a freshman in 1969.

A career .329 hitter with a slugging percentage of .581, he was called by Coach Bill Wilhelm, "the best college hitter I have ever seen." White set or tied Clemson records for career highs in runs, hits, and doubles. His 27 homers still rank fourth all-time among Tiger batsmen and his 325 total bases are good enough to keep White in the Top 10 in this category. He was also the first player in Clemson history to drive home 100 runs. White was considered such a threat with the bat that Coach Walter Rabb at North Carolina refused to have his pitchers throw him a fastball.

In addition to his Player-of-the-Year honors, White was named All-ACC and All-District in 1971 and 1973. After his senior season he received the Mitchell Award as the team's MVP and was drafted by the Yankees. He is currently in private business in Greenville, SC.

DON WILLIS
Football (1935-39)

DON WILLIS played both running back and defensive back for Clemson from 1936-38. He was, according to Coach

Frank Howard, "a great big ol' boy when boys weren't so big."

"One of the things I remember most about him was his comradery with a big tackle we had named "Goon" Miller. He played on the left side of the line and Willis played on the left side in the secondary. And ol' Willis would come up to him all the time and he'd pat him, kick him around, and kid with him. I asked him one day, 'Don, how come you're always fooling with Miller?' He said, 'Coach, if he stops 'em, I don't have to tackle 'em.'

"He was a real fine football player."

On offense he led his team in rushing both of his final seasons. A two-time All-South selection, Willis was also awarded the Jacobs Blocking Trophy, given to the outstanding blocker in the state, in 1937 and 1938. His senior season he was chosen Helms Foundation All-American and All-Southern Conference.

BUTCH ZATEZALO
Basketball (1966-70)

GEORGE "BUTCH" ZATEZALO is a name that appears often in Clemson's basketball record books. In three varsity seasons from 1967-70, he scored 1,761 points setting a career record that still stands. Only Horace Grant came close and he fell 65 points short of Zatezalo's mark after four years as a Tiger.

His other records that remain untouched are career free throws made and attempted (501/610) and career scoring average at 23.5 points per game.

In a January, 1968 contest against Maryland, Zatezalo was perfect at the stripe sinking 17 free throws in as many attempts. A year later he scored 46 points against Wake Forest and finished the 1968-69 season leading the ACC with a 25.8 scoring average.

Although remembered most for his scoring, his coach Bobby Roberts called Zatezalo a "complete ball player" at the guard position. "He can dribble, he can handle the ball in difficult situations, he can harass enough to keep the opposing guard off balance, he can set up the play and best of all, he knows where the basket is and what it's there for."

He certainly proved that with double figure scoring in every game of his senior season and 16 30-point games over his career. Zatezalo was the Tigers scoring leader all three years, earning second team All-ACC honors each of those years.

This Day In Tiger Football

Clemson Gained A Landmark Victory On This Day 11 Years Ago

By Foster Senn

Perhaps it is fitting that today's much publicized game between Clemson and Florida State be played on September 17. This day in 1977 witnessed the "rebirth" of Clemson football, marking the return of Tiger football to national prominence.

On September 17, 1977 Clemson met the 17th-ranked and defending Southeastern Conference Champion Georgia Bulldogs in Athens, where Clemson had not won since 1914. As Clemson fans prepared for the trip to Athens, it may have been with a bit more optimism than usual. Although Clemson had not been to a bowl since the glory days of Coach Frank Howard in the late 1950s, many Tiger fans felt this might be Clemson's year.

The Tigers had many talented young players like Steve Fuller and Jerry Butler. Clemson had nearly upset 10th-ranked Maryland in the season opener at Death Valley the week before, giving many Clemson fans hope for a successful season.

With rain falling on Sanford Stadium, the contest quickly turned into a defensive struggle. Randy Scott and Bubba Brown, who finished with 14 and 11 tackles, respectively, led the Clemson defense, holding Georgia scoreless at the half. Unfortunately, the Georgia defense was just as tough, shutting down Fuller and the Tiger offense. At halftime the fans were wet, the players tired, and the score was still 0-0.

In the third quarter Clemson took control of the game. Lester Brown capped a Tiger march with a three-yard touchdown run to give the Tigers a 7-0 lead. Wayne Ratchford led the Tiger offense, finishing with 77 yards.

The Clemson defense continued to sparkle after the score, causing five fumbles on the wet day and stopping the Bulldogs from moving consistently.

With Georgia on its own 43 with less than 30 seconds to play, chances for a Clemson victory appeared excellent and Clemson fans began celebrating the great victory. However, Georgia Coach Vince Dooley used a trick play—a wide receiver passed 51 yards to another wide receiver—to move the ball to the Clemson 7-yard line. Jeff Pyburn then connected with Ulysses Norris for a touchdown pass to bring the Bulldogs within one point of the Tigers and send the Bulldog fans into delirium. However, Georgia was penalized for delay of game as the Bulldogs prepared for the two-point conversion attempt. Pyburn then attempted to pass for the conversion, but he was pressured by the Tigers and his throw sailed high out of the end zone.

Clemson held on to capture the emotional 7-6 victory, and soon moved into the Top 20. On the players' trip back to Clemson, the team stopped in Commerce, Ga.

and bought victory cigars. This started a tradition of victory cigars for Clemson players after big wins that has continued for a decade.

The victory signalled a new era for Clemson football. The Tigers went on to win eight games that season and earned a trip to the Gator Bowl. From 1977-1987 the Tigers won five Atlantic Coast Conference championships, went to seven bowl games, won a national championship, and finished in the final Top 20 poll seven times. Clemson's high-ranking team today is a part of the continuing streak of outstanding Clemson teams that date back to the 1977 Clemson-Georgia game.

The Tigers have played several other times on Sept. 17, always providing excitement for football fans.

1983—Clemson and 11th-ranked Georgia tied 16-16 on this day at Death Valley. The Bulldogs jumped out to a 6-0 lead on two Kevin Butler field goals. Bob Pauling's field goal closed the gap to 6-3. Then, after William Perry caused and recovered a Georgia fumble, freshman Kenny Flowers ran 16 yards for a touchdown to give the Tigers a 10-6 halftime lead.

Clemson increased its lead to 16-6 in the third quarter behind two Pauling field goals. However, Georgia rallied for 10 points in the fourth quarter to tie the game.

The game had a rather peculiar ending. With five seconds left, Clemson's Donald Igwebuike was just short on a 68-yard field goal attempt. Georgia then turned around and tried a 66-yard field goal with one second left, but Butler's attempt was also short. The two teams combined to attempt 12 field goals in the game, an NCAA record that still stands today.

1938—For many years Presbyterian was Clemson's first opponent of the season. Most years Coach Frank Howard's Tigers were able to defeat the Blue Hose and get the season off to a good start. In this season opener at Clemson, the Tigers rolled to a 26-0 victory.

1949—Clemson moved out to a big early lead and cruised to an easy 69-7 victory over outmanned Presbyterian in a night game at Clemson. Fred Cone and Ray Mathews were the standouts on this team.

1955—Presbyterian again served as the season-opener this year and the Tigers got similar results. In this Sept. 17 contest at Clemson, the Tigers took control quickly and were never headed in a 33-0 triumph.

Steve Fuller quarterbacked Clemson to a thrilling 7-6 win at Georgia 11 years ago today.

The Last Word

1958 Flashback

By Bob Bradley

Over a period of four seasons (1956-59), the Clemson football team won 31 games and went to three bowls. And had it not been for a tie-in with the Orange Bowl, possibly the 1957 squad, with its 7-3 mark, might have been invited to a postseason game.

The 1958 team, back this weekend for its 30th anniversary, became the first Tiger football squad to face a No. 1 nationally-ranked powerhouse.

This Clemson unit would lose only to South Carolina and Georgia Tech in regular season play, and got past eight other pretty good teams.

Prior to that 1958 season, the first major addition was made to Memorial Stadium with the completion of 18,000 new seats, raising the capacity to 38,000.

About half that many (20,000) showed up for the opening game against Virginia and the Tigers had to come-from-behind twice to win, 20-15, with the winning score coming in the final quarter while trailing 15-14.

The next week North Carolina came to town. This was Jim Tatum's first visit to Memorial Stadium after taking over the Tar Heels. The year before, he had doused his "buddy" Frank Howard 26-0 at Chapel Hill.

But this time it was Howard's turn before the largest crowd ever to see a football game at Clemson—40,000.

The day was sweltering . . . ice gave out in the concession stands in the third quarter . . . possibly two score people were overcome by the heat . . . and the game was just as hot. Clemson had to come-from-behind three times to win. It was not only Howard's first win against Tatum in six tries, but it was also Howard's 100th coaching victory.

Clemson won its first game ever at Maryland the following week when Harvey White hit Wyatt Cox with a 50-yard bomb that was the only score of the week.

The Tigers next went to Vanderbilt and had to score twice in the final period to win 12-7, with the winning tally coming with just nine seconds remaining. White was named national Player-of-the-Week by The Associated Press.

The next-to-the-last Big Thursday game was next. This game always brought out a lot of ballyhoo from the press and the fans. And this one would be no exception.

Warren Giese was head coach at South Carolina and in his first two years, Clemson had recorded back-to-back shutouts. Early in the week, Giese was quoted in the press as saying that "only God and Frank Howard knows where IPTAY funds go."

Howard, never short on words, fired back: "Giese knows as much about IPTAY as he does crossing our goal line, and the first time that young fella scores on us, I'm going to tip my hat to him."

Clemson scored first, missed the extra point and South Carolina did the same thing just before the first half ended.

It is said that assistant coach Marvin Bass gave such a stirring halftime oration to the Gamecocks that they nearly tore the doors off the dressing room coming out for the second half. South Carolina scored 20 second-half points for a 26-6 win.

Howard greeted the press on the Clemson dressing room door after the game with, "Come on in and claim the body." Reminded that he did tip his hat to Giese when the Gamecocks made their first score, Howard said: "Yeah, and my head got pretty sunburned before the game was over."

The Tigers had to knock down a two-point conversion attempt by Wake Forest late in the game for a 14-12 victory, and then lost its second game of the season, 13-0, to Georgia Tech when quarterback Lowndes Shingler's injury put him out and White played little, also suffering from a sprain.

Clemson wrapped up the conference title with a 13-6 win over N. C. State with two last-quarter touchdowns and then slashed for three touchdowns in the final period the next week for a 34-12 win over Boston College.

A win over Furman the next week would pretty much assure Clemson a trip to the Sugar Bowl against the nation's No. 1 team—Louisiana State. Leading 30-0 at halftime, the Purple Hurricane, as Furman was known as then, won the second half, 19-6, but the Tigers still got their bid to be in New Orleans New Year's Day.

Much criticism was thrown Clemson's way, most of the press saying that Howard's team was not worthy of a major bowl bid . . . that Clemson was hand-picked by LSU coach Paul Dietzel, reasoning that the Billy Cannon-led Tigers would have no problem with the Palmetto-based Tigers and that there was no way Clemson would come close to selling its allotment of 10,000. Some felt that Dietzel would get most of them back for his fans.

It was said that New Orleans wasn't too excited about LSU coming to the Sugar Bowl because most of its fans would come into town with a $10 bill and the Ten Commandments and not break either one of them. Clemson sold its 10,000 tickets and wanted more.

Howard had all of the bad press that was written about his team collected, put in a scrapbook, took it to New Orleans and showed the team two days before the game.

Something worked because Clemson more than held its own. The only score of the game was a short pass from Cannon, who won the Heisman that year, to Mickey Mangham after LSU recovered a Clemson fumble on a botched punt at the Clemson 11.

Maybe long-time Wake Forest Coach Douglas C. "Peahead" Walker had the best insight of anyone. When asked how he thought Clemson would fare against LSU and its famed (defensive team) Chinese Bandits, Walker said jokingly that he wasn't worried. "They've had a Mongolian idiot coaching there for nearly 20 years."

Howard had one of his most successful seasons in 1958.
